The Dawn of Religious Freedom in South Carolina

James Lowell Underwood and W. Lewis Burke

Introduction by Walter Edgar
Contents

Acknowledgments vii
Introduction ix
  Walter Edgar

The Dawn of Religious Freedom in South Carolina: The Journey from Limited Tolerance to Constitutional Right 1
  James Lowell Underwood

"Without discrimination or preference": Equality for Catholics and Jews under the South Carolina Constitution of 1790 58
  James Lowell Underwood

“A bright era now dawns upon us”: Jewish Economic Opportunities, Religious Freedom, and Political Rights in Colonial and Antebellum South Carolina 95
  Richard and Belinda Gergel

Public Politics and Private Faith: Huguenot Political Acculturation in South Carolina, 1687–1707 114
  Alexander Moore

Seeking the Promised Land: Afro-Carolinians and the Quest for Religious Freedom to 1830 126
  Bernard E. Powers Jr.

Religious Tolerance and the Growth of the Evangelical Ethos in South Carolina 146
  Orville Vernon Burton and David Herr

“Your liberty in that province”: South Carolina Quakers and the Rejection of Religious Toleration 165
  W. Scott Poole
Bishop John England and the Compatibility of the Catholic Church and American Democracy 184

Peter Clarke and James Lowell Underwood

Contributors 211

Index 213