Modernism and Mourning

Edited by Patricia Rae

Lewisburg
Bucknell University Press
Contents

Acknowledgments 9

Introduction: Modernist Mourning 13
   PATRICIA RAE

"'Tis Not my Nature to Join in Hating, But in Loving': Toward Survivable Public Mourning 50
   MADELYN DETLOFF

The Evolution of Mourning in Siegfried Sassoon's War Writing 69
   ANDREW J. KUNKA

"How did they pick John Doe": Race, Memorialization, and Modernism in US Interwar Literature 85
   MARK WHALAN

Mourning and Jazz in the Poetry of Mina Loy 102
   TANYA DALZIELL

"Blase Sorrow": Ultramodernity's Mourning at The Little Review, 1917–20 118
   ANITA HELLE

   ERIC REINHOLTZ

Mourning and Moving On: Life After War in Ford Madox Ford's The Last Post 154
   EVE SORUM

The Failure to Mourn in Faulkner's Sartoris 168
   PEARL JAMES

Consoling Fictions: Mourning, World War One, and Dorothy L. Sayers 185
   STACY GILLIS

D. H. Lawrence, Collective Mourning, and Cultural Reconstruction after World War 1 198
   MARLENE A. BRIGGS
Double Sorrow: Proleptic Elegy and the End of Arcadianism in 1930s Britain
   PATRICIA RAE

Against Melancholia: Contemporary Mourning Theory, Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby, and the Politics of Unfinished Grief
   GREG FORTER

Monumental City: Elizabeth Bowen and the Modern Unhomely
   ELUNED SUMMERS-BREMNER

Mourning to the Limit: The Gift of Forgiveness in H.D.
   JILL SCOTT

Afterword: "When There Are So Many We Shall Have to Mourn"
   JAHAN RAMAZANI

Contributors

Index