Contents

List of illustrations vii
Notes on contributors xi
Acknowledgements xiv
Foreword by Stanley Wells xvii

Introduction
Peter Holland

PART I
SHAKESPEARE’S PERFORMANCES OF MEMORY

1. Speaking what we feel about *King Lear
   Bruce R. Smith
   23

2. Shakespeare’s memorial aesthetics
   John J. Joughin
   43

3. Priamus is dead: memorial repetition in Marlowe and Shakespeare
   Anthony B. Dawson
   63

PART II
EDITING SHAKESPEARE AND THE PERFORMANCE OF MEMORY

4. ‘Wrought with things forgotten’: memory and performance in editing *Macbeth
   Michael Cordner
   87

5. Citing Shakespeare
   Margaret Jane Kidnie
   117

PART III
PERFORMANCE MEMORY: COSTUMES AND BODIES

6. Shopping in the archives: material memories
   Barbara Hodgdon
   135
Contents

7 'Her first remembrance from the Moor': actors and the materials of memory 168
   Carol Chillington Rutter

8 On the gravy train: Shakespeare, memory and forgetting 207
   Peter Holland

PART IV RECONSTRUCTING SHAKESPEAREAN PERFORMANCE

9 Remembering Bergner's Rosalind: As You Like It on film in 1936 237
   Russell Jackson

10 Shakespeare exposed: outdoor performance and ideology, 1880–1940 256
    Michael Dobson

PART V PERFORMANCE MEMORY: TECHNOLOGIES AND THE MUSEUM

11 Fond records: remembering theatre in the digital age 281
    W. B. Worthen

12 The Shakespeare revolution will not be televised: staging the media apparatus 305
    Robert Shaughnessy

13 Memory, performance and the idea of the museum 329
    Dennis Kennedy

Afterword by Stephen Orgel 346

Index 350