Introduction  Literacy Work in a Technology-Rich Culture:
Issues at the Intersection of Labor, Technology, and Writing Instruction
Pamela Takayoshi and Patricia Sullivan

Part 1: Voicing Our (Past and Future)
Professional Identities

1  When the Cutting Edge of Technology Is at Your Throat:
A Report from the Front
Richard E. Miller

2  Composition, or a Case for Experimental Critical Writing
Janet Carey Eldred

3  Technological Labor and Tenure Decisions:
Making a Virtual Case via Electronic Portfolios
Kristine L. Blair

4  Assessment as Labor and the Labor of Assessment
Peggy O’Neill, Ellen Schendel, Michael Williamson, and Brian Huot

Part 2: Mediating Technology-Shaped Identities

5  WAC for Cyborgs: Discursive Thought in Information-
Rich Environments
Charles Bazerman
6 “Whatever Beings”: The Coming (Educational) Community
Victor J. Vitanza.

7 ‘Outing’ the Institution: (Re)Writing Technologies with a Rhetoric of Female-to-Male Drag
Tara Pauliny

8 (Cyber)Conspiracy Theories?: African-American Students in the Computerized Writing Environment
Samantha Blackmon

Part 3: Exploring Possibilities for Agency in Institutional Settings

9 Agencies, Ecologies, and the Mundane Artifacts in Our Midst
Stuart Blythe.

10 Roots and Routes to Agency: Space Access, and Standards of Participation
Annette Harris Powell

11 (Mis)Conceptions: Pedagogical Labor and Learning-Enhancement Programs
Joseph Zeppetello

12 Labor Practices and the Use Value of Technologies
Marilyn M. Cooper

13 Literacy Work in E-Learning Factories: How Stories in Popular Business Imagine Our Future
Patricia Sullivan

Part 4: Identifying Sustainable Technological Practices

14 Techniques, Technologies, and the Deskilling of Rhetoric and Composition: Managing the Knowledge-Intensive Work of Writing Instruction
Bill Hart-Davidson and Tim Peeples

15 Writing Assessment and the Labor of “Reform” in the Academy
Margaret K. Willard-Traub
Contents

16  Between Ethnographic and Virtual Worlds: Toward a Pedagogy of Mediation
    David Seitz and Julie Lindquist 305

17  Sustaining Community-Based Work: Community-Based Research and Community Building
    Jeff T. Grabill 325

Author Index 341
Subject Index 347