Gabriele Linke • Erwin Otto • Holger Rossow
Gerd Stratmann • Merle Tonnies (Hg.)

anglistik & englischunterricht

Band 69

Teaching Contemporary British Fiction

UNIVERSITATSVERLAG WINTER
HEIDELBERG
Contents

Steven Barfield, Anja Miiller-Wood, Philip Tew
and Leigh Wilson:
Introduction .......................................................................................7

Leigh Wilson:
Teaching Contemporary British Fiction:
Some Preliminary Considerations .......................................................15

Nick Bentley:
Developing the Canon:
Teaching Contemporary British Fiction ............................................27

Dory Jane Birrer:
Theoretical Fiction, Academic Culture:
Contextualising British Novels of the 1980s ....................................47

Ruth McElroy:
Bringing it Home: Devolution, Multiculturalism and British Students' Voices .................................................................67

Robert Bond:
Cultural Materialism and Contemporary Democracies:
Teaching Recent British Fiction .......................................................89

Katharine Cockin:
Chicks and Lads in Contemporary Fiction .......................................107

Mike Doherty:
Anarchy in the Classroom: Pop Music and
Teaching Contemporary British Fiction ........................................125

Anja Miiller-Wood:
Enabling Resistance:
Teaching Atonement in Germany ....................................................143
Mitchell R. Lewis:
The Gothic Gaze: The Politics of Gender in
Patrick McGrath's Asylum .................................................. 159

Sara Crangle:
Silence and Noise:
Understanding Christine Brooke-Roses' Such ...................... 175

Richard Hudson:
The Writer as Scholar: Education by Stealth ....................... 193

Contributors' Addresses ....................................................... 209