Victorian Animal Dreams
Representations of Animals in Victorian Literature and Culture

Edited by

DEBORAH DENENHOLZ MORSE
College of William and Mary, USA

MARTIN A. DANAHAY
Brock University, Canada

ASHGATE
Contents

List of Illustrations vii
General Editors' Preface ix
Acknowledgments xi
Notes on Contributors xiii

Introduction 1
Deborah Denenholz Morse and Martin A. Danahay

Part I Science and Sentiment 13
1 Animal Angst: Victorians Memorialize their Pets 15
   Teresa Mangum
2 Victorian Beetlemania 35
   Cannon Schmitt
3 Killing Elephants: Pathos and Prestige in the Nineteenth Century 53
   Nigel Rothfels
4 Designs after Nature: Evolutionary Fashions, Animals, and Gender 65
   Susan David Bernstein
5 Dying Like a Dog in Great Expectations 81
   Ivan Kreilkamp

Part II Sex and Violence 95
6 Nature Red in Hoof and Paw: Domestic Animals and Violence in Victorian Art 97
   Martin A. Danahay
7 “The Crossing o’ Breeds” in The Mill on the Floss 121
   Mary Jean Corbett
8 Horses and Sexual/Social Dominance 145
   Elsie B. Michie
9 Pacific Harvests: Whales and Albatrosses in Nineteenth-Century Markets 167
   Anca Vlasopolos
Part III  Sin and Bestiality

10 “The Mark of the Beast”: Animals as Sites of Imperial Encounter from Wuthering Heights to Green Mansions
Deborah Denenholz Morse

11 Beastly Criminals and Criminal Beasts: Stray Women and Stray Dogs in Oliver Twist
Grace Moore

12 The Sins of Sloths: The Moral Status of Fossil Megatheria in Victorian Culture
Alan Rauch

13 Tiger Tales
Heather Schell

14 The Empire Bites Back: The Racialized Crocodile of the Nineteenth Century
Mary Elizabeth Leighton and Lisa Surridge

Afterword
Harriet Ritvo

Index