Contents

Foreword

HENRY LOUIS GATES, JR. \( \text{ix} \)

Acknowledgments

\( \text{xvii} \)

Introduction: Making Space for Harriet E. Wilson

\( \text{xix} \)

Part I  New Hampshire's “Shadows”: Context and History

ERIC GARDNER  Of Bottles and Books: Reconsidering the Readers of Harriet Wilson's Our Nig \( 3 \)

BARBARA A. WHITE  Harriet Wilson's Mentors: The Walkers of Worcester \( 27 \)

REGINALD H. PITTS  George and Timothy Blanchard: Surviving and Thriving in Nineteenth-Century Milford \( 41 \)

DAVID H. WATTERS  "As Soon as I Saw My Sable Brother, I Felt More at Home": Sampson Battis, Harriet Wilson, and New Hampshire Town History \( 67 \)

VALERIE CUNNINGHAM  New Hampshire Forgot: African Americans in a Community by the Sea \( 97 \)

Part II  Reading “Sketches From the Life of a Free Black”: Genre and Gender

MARY LOUISE KETE  Slavery's Shadows: Narrative Chiaroscuro and Our Nig \( 109 \)

P. GABRIELLE FOREMAN  Recovered Autobiographies and the Marketplace: Our Nig's Generic Genealogies and Harriet Wilson's Entrepreneurial Enterprise \( 123 \)

LISA E. GREEN  The Disorderly Girl in Harriet E. Wilson's Our Nig \( 139 \)

CASSANDRA JACKSON  Beyond the Page: Rape and the Failure of Genre \( 155 \)
Eve Allegra Raimon  Miss Marsh’s Uncommon School Reform  167
Helen Frink  Fairy Tales and Our Nig: Feminist Approaches 183 to Teaching Harriet Wilson’s Novel

Part III “A Faithful Band of Supporters and Defenders”:
Personal Reflections

John Ernest  Losing Equilibrium: Harriet E. Wilson, Frado, and Me  203
William Allen  Discovering Harriet Wilson in My Own Backyard 213
Gloria Henry  A Conversation with Tami Sanders 217
JerriAnne Boggis  Not Somewhere Else, But Here  225

Contributors  237
Index  241