Recovering Memory
Irish Representations of Past and Present

Edited by
Hedda Friberg, Irene Gilsenan Nordin and Lene Yding Pedersen

CAMBRIDGE SCHOLARS PUBLISHING
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction: Memory as Recovering ................................................................. viii
Hedda Friberg, Irene Gilse nan Nordin, Lene Yding Pedersen

Part I: Memory and History

Chapter 1 ................................................................................................................2
Memory and Forgetting in Irish Culture
Richard Kearney

Chapter 2 ................................................................................................................20
Relating to Ireland’s Past: Memory, Identity and History
Michael Böss

Chapter 3 ................................................................................................................35
Remembering Bloody Sunday
Shane Alcobia-Murphy

Part II: Memory and Autobiography

Chapter 4 ................................................................................................................52
“I Remember”: Childhood Events, Professional Experience and Political Developments in John Hewitt’s Autobiographical Works
Britta Olinder

Chapter 5 ................................................................................................................69
Skeletons in the Historical Cupboard: Aspects of Familial and National Memory in Joseph O’Neill’s Blood-Dark Track
Billy Gray

Chapter 6 ................................................................................................................83
Memory, Power, Subversion: Dave Duggan’s Scenes from an Inquiry
Heidi Hansson
Part III: Memory and Place

Chapter 7 ....................................................................................................................... 98
"It's time for some new coinage": Derek Mahon's Redefinition of Identity and the Memory of Place in a Postnational(ist) Context
Carmen Zamorano Llena

Chapter 8 ....................................................................................................................... 115
Between Flashbulbs and Searchlights: Remembering through the Language of Photography in Brian Friel's The Freedom of the City
Róisín Keys

Chapter 9 ....................................................................................................................... 128
"The Broken Place": Memory, Language, Tradition, and Storytelling in Colm Tóibín's Texts
Anders Olsson

Chapter 10 ..................................................................................................................... 149
"Do your folks know you're gay?": Memory and Oral History as Education and Resistance in Colm Toibín's The Blackwater Lightship
Åke Persson

Part IV: Memory and Identity

Chapter 11 ..................................................................................................................... 172
"In Touch with Some Otherness": Brian Friel and the Dancing Place of Memory
Irene Gilsenan Nordin

Chapter 12 ..................................................................................................................... 186
The Imperative Imprint of the Past in Samuel Beckett's Embers and Not I
Brynhildur Boyce

Chapter 13 ..................................................................................................................... 202
Place, Experience and Estrangement in the Poetry of Paul Muldoon
Anne Karhio

Chapter 14 ..................................................................................................................... 220
Equus in the Hippocampus: Remembering the Horse in Yeats and Heaney
Ulf Dantanus
Part V: Memory and Banville

Chapter 15
Waters and Memories Always Divide: Sites of Memory in John Banville’s The Sea
Hedda Friberg

Chapter 16
A Nexus of Memories: John Banville’s Prague
Lene Yding Pedersen

Chapter 17
Mnemonic Air in John Banville’s Science Tetralogy
Joakim Wrethed

Contributors

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Waters and Memories Always Divide: Sites of Memory in John Banville’s The Sea</td>
<td>244</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>A Nexus of Memories: John Banville’s Prague</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Mnemonic Air in John Banville’s Science Tetralogy</td>
<td>280</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Contributors</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>291</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>