In The Vernacular

A Generation of Australian Culture and Controversy

STUART CUNNINGHAM
Contents

Foreword ix
Acknowledgments xv
Sources xvii
Screen title availability xix

Introduction xxi

Part 1 Australian film 1
Chapter 1 The decades of survival: Australian cinema 1930–70 4
Chapter 2 Approaching Chauvel 25
Chapter 3 Apollonius and Dionysus in the Antipodes 50
Chapter 4 Hollywood genres, Australian movies 61

Part 2 Australian television 69
Chapter 5 Style, form and history in Australian mini-series 73
Chapter 6 Kennedy–Miller: 'House style' in Australian television 94
Chapter 7 (with Liz Jacka) Australian television in world markets 122

Part 3 Diasporas and media use 147
Chapter 8 Theorising the diasporic audience 149
Chapter 9 (with Tina Nguyen) Actually existing hybridity: Vietnamese diasporic music video 161

Part 4 The cultural policy debate 183
Chapter 10 Cultural studies from the viewpoint of cultural policy 185
Chapter 11 Re-framing culture 203

Part 5 Creative industries and beyond 215
Chapter 12 The creative industries after cultural policy 218
Chapter 13 What price a creative economy? 231

Notes 267
Index 287