CONTENTS

Foreword
Deborah Cartmell

Introduction: How Should We Teach It? How Could We Teach It?
James M. Welsh

1 Adapting Wilde for the Performance Classroom: "No Small Parts"
Frances Babbage with Robert Neumark Jones and Lauren Williams

2 "It Must All Change Now": Victor Hugo's
Lucretia Borgia and Adaptation
Richard J. Hand

3 "Never Seek to Tell Thy Love":
E-Adapting Blake in the Classroom
Richard Berger

4 Adaptation and Creative Writing: Brokeback Mountain
on the London Underground
Mark O'Thomas

5 Pedagogy and Policy in Intermedial Adaptations
Freda Chapple

6 Toward a Pedagogy for Adaptation Studies
Sevgi Şahin and Laurence Raw

vi
ix
1
17
31
45
55
71
Contents

7 Writing the Adaptation: Teaching an Upper-Division College Course for the Screenwriter 85
Diane Lake

8 Whose Life Is It, Anyway? Adaptation, Collective Memory, and (Auto)Biographical Processes 95
Suzanne Diamond

9 The Numbers Game: Quantifying the Audience 111
Alexis Weedon

10 Engaging the Ear: Teaching Radio Drama Adaptations 133
Elke Huwiler

11 The Pleasures of “Theater Film”: Stage to Film Adaptation 147
Milan Pribisic

Filmography 161
Bibliography 163
Index 173
About the Editors and Contributors 179