Culture, Capital and Representation

Edited by
Robert J. Balfour
Contents

List of Illustrations ix
Acknowledgements xi
List of Contributors xii

Introduction: Culture, Capital and Representation 1
Robert J. Balfour

1 Colonialism, Displacement and Cannibalism in Early Modern Economic Thought 16
Hugh Goodacre

2 Accounting Capital, Race and Benjamin Franklin’s ‘Pecuniary Habits’ of Mind in The Autobiography 35
Rekha Rosha

3 A System Illusory and Immoral: Jonathan Swift and the Emergence of the Modern Economic Polity 49
Christopher J. Fauske

4 Payments of Attention: Epitaphic Cash Flow in Gray and Wordsworth 67
György Fogarasí

5 Money, Manhood and Suffrage in Our Mutual Friend 83
Ruth Livesey

6 Feverish Speculation: the Railway Across the Isthmus of Panama 100
Marian Aguiar

7 Reading Finance Capital 116
Leigh Claire La Berge

Ben Roberts

Guillaume Evrard
10  Finance and Film: Wall Street Myth and Mythopoeia  169
    Elton G. McGoun

11  Conclusion: Re-presenting Capital in Culture: the Necessary Persistence of Memory in a New Century  184
    Robert J. Balfour

Bibliography  202

Index  218