List of Contents

List of Illustrations ix
Acknowledgements x

Introduction 1
‘Nature’s Coin’: The Traditions of Early Modern Beauty 2
Beauty’s Practices: A Feminist Literary History 6
‘The Poetry of Women’ 13

Part One: Cosmetics 19
1 ‘The Beautifying Part of Physic’: Women’s Cosmetic Practices in Early Modern England 21
The ‘Choicest and Select’d Receps’ of Women 22
Mercury’s Artists 28
Conclusion 35

2 ‘Soveraigne Receipts’, Fair Beauty and Race in Stuart England 38
Physic and the Queen’s Amazonian Beauty in Salmacida Spolia 40
The Politics of Beauty in The Queens Closet Opened 47
Whiteness in Aphra Behn’s The Wandring Beauty 52
Conclusion 60

Part Two: Clothes 63
3 The Greatness in Good Clothes: Fashioning Subjectivity in Mary Wroth’s Urania and Margaret Spencer’s Account Book (BL Add. MS 62092) 65
How Clothes Make the Woman 68
A ‘Princesse without a Country, cloathes, or servants’ in the Urania 70
Inwardness and Economics in Margaret Spencer’s Account Book 76
Conclusion 84

4 What Not to Wear: Children’s Clothes and the Maternal Advice of Elizabeth Jocelin and Brilliana, Lady Harley 86
The Governance of Clothing 87
List of Contents

Elizabeth Jocelin Against the 'Fashionists' 95
Brilliana, Lady Harley, and the 'Garment of Holiness' 103
Conclusion 110

Part Three: Hair 113

5 The Culture of the Head: Hair in Mary Wroth’s Urania and Margaret Cavendish’s ‘Assaulted and Pursued Chastity’ 115
The Culture of Natural Hair 116
‘Compositions of the Hair’ in the Urania 124
Margaret Cavendish and Imperial Hair 133
Conclusion 143

6 An ‘absolute Mistris of her Self’: Anne Clifford and the Luxury of Hair 144
Lady Anne Clifford’s Inheritance of Beauty 148
‘Mistris of her Self’: The Baldness of the Baroness of Westmorland 160
Conclusion 178

Notes 180

Index 220