Salman Rushdie and Visual Culture
Celebrating Impurity, Disrupting Borders

Edited by Ana Cristina Mendes
List of Figures

1 Salman Rushdie's “Epico-Mythico-Tragico-Comico-Super-Sexy-High-Masala-Art,” or Considerations on Undisciplining Boundaries 1
   ANA CRISTINA MENDES

2 Merely Connect: Salman Rushdie and Tom Phillips 12
   ANDREW TEVERSON

3 Beyond the Visible: Secularism and Postcolonial Modernity in Salman Rushdie's The Moor's Last Sigh, Jamelie Hassan's Trilogy, and Anish Kapoor's Blood Relations 32
   STEPHEN MORTON

4 Living Art: Artistic and Intertextual Re-envisionings of the Urban Trope in The Moor's Last Sigh 50
   VASSILENA PARASHKEVova

5 In Search for Lost Portraits: The Lost Portrait and The Moor's Last Sigh 70
   JOEL KUORTTI

6 Paint, Patronage, Power, and the Translator’s Visibility 87
   JENNI RAMONE

7 Show and Tell: Midnight’s Children and The Boyhood of Raleigh Revisited 106
   NEIL TEN KORTENAAR
x Contents

8 “Nobody from Bombay should be without a basic film vocabulary”: midnight’s children and the visual culture of Indian popular cinema 123
Florian Stadlter

9 Visual Technologies in Rushdie’s Fiction: Envisioning the Present in the ‘Imagological Age’ 139
Cristina Sandru

10 Bombay/’Wombay’: Refracting the Postcolonial Cityscape in the ground beneath her feet 158
Ana Cristina Mendes

11 Screening the Novel, the Novel as Screen: The Aesthetics of the Visual in Fury 182
Madeleina Gonzalez

12 Media Competition and Visual Displeasure in Salman Rushdie’s Fiction 202
Mita Banerjee

Contributors 223
Index 227