Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Introduction: Towards a Postcolonial Narrative Aesthetics 1
WALTER GOEBEL AND SASKIA SCHABIO

PART I
Pre- and Post-colonial Aesthetic Templates

1 Love, Marriage, and Realism: The Novel in Pre- and Post-colonial India 13
HARISH TRIVEDI

2 Post-colonial Utopianism: The Utility of Hope 27
BILL ASHCROFT

3 "... At the Edge of Writing and Speech": Shifting Genre, Relocating the Aesthetic 44
SASKIA SCHABIO

PART II
Resistant and Subversive Genres

4 “Writing the Poetry of Troy”: Mahmoud Darwish and the Lyrical Epic as Postcolonial Resistance Genre 61
Contents

5 Genre: Fidelity and Transgression in the Post-colonial African Novel 76
MPALIVE HANGSON MSISKA

6 “De-Formed Narrators”: Postcolonial Genre and Peripheral Modernity in Mabanckou and Pepetela 92
SHARAE DECKARD

7 V.S. Naipaul’s Heterobiographical Fictions or Postcolonial Melancholia Reinterpreted 108
WALTER GOEBEL

PART III
Longue Durée Perspectives and Orature

8 Folktales In(to) Postcolonial Narratives and Aesthetics 127
FERIAL GHAZOUL

9 A House, a Museum, and a Legend: Bait Al-Kretliya 141
NADIA EL KHOHY

10 . . . What Will Count as the World: Indian Short Story Cycles and the Question of Genre 155
DIRK WIEMANN

PART IV
Emerging Narrative Genres

11 Saying Sorry: The Politics of Apology and Reconciliation in Recent Australian Fiction 171
SUE KOSSEW

12 Remapping Territories of Fiction in Ahdaf Soueif’s The Map of Love 184
NOHA HAMDY
13 Reading Short Stories as a Postcolonialist: Jhumpa Lahiri's "This Blessed House" 195
RENATE BROSCH

14 Postcolonialism and Nostalgia in Michael Ondaatje's Divisadero 208
GEORGIANA BANITA

Contributors 223
Index 227