Debating the Faith: Religion and Letter Writing in Great Britain, 1550-1800
Contents

1 Introduction ....................................................................................................................... 1
   Gary Schneider

Part I Protestant Identities

2 Scribal Networks and Sustainers in Protestant Martyrology ....................... 19
   Mark Greengrass

3 Thomas Browne, the Quakers, and a Letter from a Judicious Friend .................. 37
   Reid Barbour

4 Writing Authority in the Interregnum: The Pastoral Letters of Richard Baxter .......... 49
   Alison Searle

5 Letters and Records of the Dissenting Congregations: David Crosley, Cripplegate and Baptist Church Life ........................................... 69
   Anne Dunan-Page

Part II Representations of British Catholicism

6 'For the Greater Glory': Irish Jesuit Letters and the Irish Counter-Reformation, 1598–1626 ......................................................... 91
   David Finnegan

7 Negotiating Catholic Kingship for a Protestant People: 'Private’ Letters, Royal Declarations and the Achievement of Religious Detente in the Jacobite Underground, 1702–1718 ........... 107
   Daniel Szechi
8 ‘Every Time I Receive a Letter from You It Gives Me New Vigour’: The Correspondence of the Scalan Masters, 1762–1783 ................................................................. 123
Clotilde Prunier

Part III Religion, Science and Philosophy

9 Utopian Intelligences: Scientific Correspondence and Christian Virtuosos ................................................................. 139
Claire Preston

10 Debating the Faith: Damaris Masham (1658–1708) and Religious Controversy ................................................................. 159
Sarah Hutton

11 Evangelical Calvinists Versus the Hutcheson Circle: Debating the Faith in Scotland, 1738–1739 ................................................................. 177
James Moore

12 Questioning Church Doctrine in Private Correspondence in the Eighteenth Century: Jean Bouhier’s Doubts Concerning the Soul ................................................................. 195
Ann Thomson

Index ........................................................................................................................................ 209