Contents

Acknowledgements vii

Notes on Contributors viii

Introduction: Past “Perfect” and Present “Tense”: The Abuses and Uses of Modernist Nostalgia 1

Tammy Clewell

Part I Bodies

1 Modernism and the Referendum on Nostalgia in Rebecca West’s The Return of the Soldier 25

Bernard Schweizer

2 Nostalgia, Trauma, and the Aftermath of War: Siegfried Sassoon and W. H. R. Rivers 36

Robert Hemmings

3 You Can’t Go Home Again: Ambivalent Nostalgia in T. S. Eliot’s Poetry 54

Gabrielle McIntire

4 Matricide and the End of Nostalgia in Elizabeth Bowen 71

Maren Linett

Part II Locations

5 “Permanent preservation for the benefit of the nation”: The Country House, Preservation, and Nostalgia in Vita Sackville-West’s The Edwardians and Virginia Woolf’s Orlando 93

Sarah Edwards

6 Modernist Urban Nostalgia and British Metropolitan Writing, 1908–1934 111

Barry J. Faulk

7 Katherine Mansfield, D. H. Lawrence, and Imperialist Nostalgia 131

Carey Snyder
vi Contents

8 “There’ll be no more fishing this side the grave”: Radical Nostalgia in George Orwell’s Coming Up for Air
   Patricia Rae 149

9 Dissolving Landscapes: W. H. Auden’s Protean Nostalgia
   Eve Sorum 166

Part III Aesthetics

10 Rupert Brooke’s Ambivalent Mourning, Ezra Pound’s Anticipatory Nostalgia
    Meredith Martin 183

11 The Beloved Republic: Nostalgia and the Political Aesthetic of E. M. Forster
    John J. Su 198

12 Nostalgia, Mourning, and Désistance in James Joyce’s Ulysses
    Christy L. Burns 216

13 Modernist Nostalgia/Nostalgia for Modernism: Anthony Powell and Evelyn Waugh
    Marina MacKay 237

Afterword: Nostalgia and Modernist Anxiety
    Elizabeth Outka 252

Index 262