Religion and Women in Britain, c. 1660–1760

Edited by

SARAH APETREI
University of Oxford, UK

and

HANNAH SMITH
University of Oxford, UK

ASHGATE
Notes on Contributors vii
Acknowledgements ix

1 Introduction Sarah Apetrei and Hannah Smith 1
2 Women, Marriage and Agency in Restoration Dissent Alison Searle 23
3 Masculine Virgins: Celibacy and Gender in Later Stuart London Sarah Apetrei 41
4 Female Authority and Lay Activism in Scottish Presbyterianism, 1660–1740 Alasdair Raffe 61
5 ‘When God shall Restore them to their Kingdoms’: Nuns, Exiled Stuarts and English Catholic Identity, 1688–1745 Claire Walker 79
6 A Latitudinarian Queen: Mary II and her Churchmen Melinda Zook 99
7 Religion and Sociability in the Correspondence of Damaris Masham (1658–1708) Sarah Hutton 117
8 Slander, Conversation and the Making of the Christian Public Sphere in Mary Astell’s A Serious Proposal to the Ladies and The Christian Religion as Profess’d by a Daughter of the Church of England William Kolbrener 131
9 Susanna Centlivre, ‘Our Church’s Safety’ and ‘Whig Feminism’ Hannah Smith 145
10 The Life and Works of Catherine Talbot (1721–70): ‘A Public Concern’ Emma Major 163

Bibliography 179
Index 211