Warlands

Edited By

Peter Gatrell
Professor of Economic History, University of Manchester

and

Nick Baron
Associate Professor in History, University of Nottingham
Contents

List of Figures and Tables vii
Acknowledgements viii
Notes on Contributors ix
Maps xii

1 From ‘Homelands’ to ‘Warlands’: Themes, Approaches, Voices 1
Peter Gatrell

Part I Transit: National Experiences and International Interventions in Postwar Displaced Persons Camps 23

2 Living in the Displaced Persons Camp: Lithuanian War Refugees in the West, 1944–54 25
Tomas Balkelis

3 ‘How those Brothers in Foreign Lands are ‘Dividing the Fatherland’: Latvian National Politics in Displaced Persons Camps after the Second World War 48
Aldis Purs

4 The Quaker Internationalist Tradition in Displaced Persons Camps, 1945–48 67
Jenny Carson

Part II Return: Soviet Postwar Resettlement Practices and Population Management 87

5 Remaking Soviet Society: the Filtration of Returnees from Nazi Germany, 1944–49 89
Nick Baron

6 Dirt, Disease and Disorder: Population Re-placement in Postwar Leningrad and the ‘Danger’ of Social Contamination 117
Siobhan Peeling

7 The Repatriation of Armenians to Soviet Armenia, 1945–49 140
Joanne Laycock
Contents

Part III  Border Crossings: State Practices of Displacement and National Reconstruction 163

8  Ukrainian–Polish Population Transfers, 1944–46:
Moving in Opposite Directions 165
Kateryna Stadnik

9  To Pacify, Populate and Polonise: Territorial Transformations and the Displacement of Ethnic Minorities in Communist Poland, 1944–49 188
Konrad Zielinski

10  Population Displacement and Regional Reconstruction in Postwar Poland: the Case of Upper Silesia 210
Ewa Ochman

Part IV  The Politics of Memory: Long-Term Perspectives on Displacement 229

11  Locating Estonia: Perspectives from Exile and the Homeland 231
Meike Wulf

12  Violent Peacetime: Reconceptualising Displacement and Resettlement in the Soviet–East European Borderlands after the Second World War 255
Peter Gatrell and Nick Baron

Index 269