

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Introduction	1
PART ONE
SCIENTIFIC INNOVATION AND OBSOLESCENCE
Introduction	7
1 Defining Innovation in the Social Sciences	9
2 Patrimonies: Incremental Advance and the Distorting Effects of the “Star System”	19
3 The Paradox of Density	29
4 Does Citation Measure Innovation?	37
5 Cemeteries for Books	45
PART TWO
FROM SPECIALIZATION AND FRAGMENTATION TO HYBRIDIZATION
Introduction	51
6 Specialization in the Social Sciences	53
7 Hybridization: The Recombination of Fragments of the Social Sciences	63
8 Fragmentation by Geographical Area Versus Analytical Fragmentation	77

PART THREE THE CRUMBLING WALLS OF THE FORMAL DISCIPLINES

Introduction	83
9 The Fate of the Formal Disciplines: From Coherence to Dispersion	85
10 Why Interdisciplinarity Is a False Notion	115

PART FOUR
THE INTERPENETRATION OF DISCIPLINES:
THE PROCESSES OF HYBRIDIZATION

Introduction	121
11 The Diffusion of Concepts Across Disciplines	123
12 Borrowing Methods	131
13 The Impact of Technology	141
14 The Cross-disciplinary Repercussions of Findings	143
15 The Influence of Theories	147
16 Perspectives, Paradigms, and Praxis	153
17 Hybridization of Academic Journals	161
18 The Balance of Trade Between Disciplines	165

PART FIVE
GALLERY OF HYBRIDS: CREATIVE MARGINALS

Introduction	169
19 Three Ideal Types of Social Scientists	171
20 Intellectual Migration Across Disciplines	175

PART SIX
CROSSROADS: FOUR ILLUSTRATIONS

Introduction	185
21 Historical Sociology and Sociological History	187
22 Junctions Between the Social Sciences and Life Sciences	203

CONTENTS

vii

23	International Political Economy: A Fusion of Several Subfields	217
24	The Hesitant Exchange Between Economics and Psychology	225
	Final Remarks: The New Kaleidoscope of Social Sciences	229
	Bibliography	237
	Author Index	249
	Subject Index	258