

Figures

- 2.1 Live birth rate per thousand population in England and Wales, 1841–1980
- 3.1 Decrees nisi granted in England and Wales, 1936–1983
- 6.1 Cumulative death rates from birth to 35 years in men and women according to the social class of their family of origin
- 6.2a Cumulative death rates in men, comparing the social class of the family of origin, and those with and without chronic illness in childhood
- 6.2b Cumulative death rates in women, comparing the social class of the family of origin, and those with and without chronic illness in childhood
- 7.1 Average scores (and confidence intervals) on tests taken at 8 years

Tables

- 2.1 Comparison of study infant death rates with those in England, Wales, and Scotland 1987
- 4.1a The influence of parental interest on 8-year-old boys' and girls' reading average scores
- 4.1b The influence of parental interest on 8-year-old boys' and girls' picture intelligence average scores
- 4.2 Social group by level of attainment at age 11 years; percentage of 15-year-old children attending grammar schools
- 5.1 Percentages of children who achieved O level examination passes, in relation to the social group of their family and their attainment tests score at age 15 years
- 5.2 Types of schools attended by girls and boys at age 15 years
- 5.3 The association of educational attainment at 8 years with educational outcome
- 5.4 The relationship between parents' and children's qualifications
- 5.5 Educational attainment of boys and girls from different social backgrounds, according to their experience of parental divorce or death whilst 0–15 years
- 6.1a Employment of men (and women, in brackets) who scored in the top third on attainment tests at 8 years, and the home and school routes to employment
- 6.1b Employment of men (and women, in brackets) who scored in the middle and lowest thirds on attainment tests at 8 years, and the home and school routes to employment
- 6.2 Family origins and educational attainment of high earning (top third) men at age 36 years

- 6.3 Leisure time activities of men and women at 36 years, according to their class of origin and their education
- 7.1 Expectations of life at birth and at 40 years, and gains in expectations, for males and females in three generations of the United Kingdom population
- 7.2 Employment and unemployment amongst study members and their parents
- 7.3a Women's employment and unemployment at 36 years, and the social class origins of those in each group
- 7.3b Men's employment and unemployment at 36 years, and the social class origins of those in each group
- 9.1 Contacts made with the whole population selected for follow-up after the birth survey of 1946
- 9.2 Contact with the cohort at age 43–4 years