List of contributors                      page vii
Acknowledgments                           ix

Introduction    Jon Elster and John E. Roemer  1
1  The moral basis of interpersonal comparisons
   Thomas M. Scanlon                        17
2  Against the taste model      James Griffin  45
3  Utilitarian metaphysics?     John Broome    70
4  Local justice and interpersonal comparisons
   Jon Elster                              98
5  Notes on the psychology of utility
   Daniel Kahneman and Carol Varey         127
6  Adult-equivalence scales, interpersonal comparisons of well-being, and applied welfare economics
   Charles Blackorby and David Donaldson   164
7  Interpersonal comparisons of utility: Why and how they are and should be made    Peter J. Hammond  200 8  A reconsideration of the Harsanyi–Sen debate on utilitarianism    John A. Weymark       255 9  Deducing interpersonal comparisons from local expertise     Ignacio Ortuño-Ortin and John E. Roemer  321
10 Subjective interpersonal comparison
    Aanund Hylland                         337
11 Utilitarian fundamentalism and limited information
    C. d’Aspremont and L.A. Gérard-Varet    371

Index                                             387