CONTENTS

Preface xi

Part One Assumptions: The Nature of Power 3

1. The Non-Christian Model of Man 3
   Two Paradigms of Modern Social Sciences 3
   The Christian Model of Man 5
   The Non-Christian Model of Man 11
   The Concept of Freedom in the Non-Christian Model of Man 15

2. The Nature of Power 21
   Control and Domination 21
   Class Domination 23
   The Structure of Power 25
   The Authority and Civil Society 31
   Power as a Class and Civilizational Structure 38

Part Two Elementary Models of Power 49

3. Idealizing Assumptions 49
   The Methodological Structure of the Theory of Power 49
   The Structure of the Presented Theory 52
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Contents</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4. Enslavement, Revolution, Satanization:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materialist Model I</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Model</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Multilinear Development and Progress in Model I</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. The State and the Organization of Civil Society:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materialist-Institutionalist Model II</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Hierarchy of Power and the Pyramid of Political Rule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Society and State Systems: Functional Dependencies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Society and State Systems: Actual Relations</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>State Systems and Society: Feedback Dependencies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Concept of Power in Model II</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. Ideology of Power and Citizens’ Utopia:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materialist-Consciousness Model III</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Nature of Collective Consciousness</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>An Ideological Loop and Utopian Counter-Loop: A Non-Weberian Approach to Legitimation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social-Political Consciousness and Social-Political Conditions: The Case of Functionality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social-Political Consciousness and Social-Political Conditions: The Case of Dysfunctionality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Revolution and Rebellion</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Concept of Power in Model III</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Part Three  Global Models of Power

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Contents</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>7. The Mechanism of Aggression</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Idealizing Assumptions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Social Causes and Consequences of Aggression</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8. The Structure and Development of an Empire:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materialist Model IV</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Aggressor-Victim Relationship</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Empire</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
9. A Bloc: Materialist Model V
   Subordination
   The Structure of the Bloc of Countries
   The Concept of Power in Model V
   Specific Cases

Part Four  Special Models of Power

10. The Influence of Technological Progress on the Relations of Power: Materialist Model VI
    The Idealizing Assumptions
    Two Main Effects of Technological Progress
    The Orwellian Problem
    Progress of Technology and Civil Loops
    Two Myths of Technological Progress:
        Marx’s and Orwell’s

11. Power and Its Forces of Coercion:
    Materialist Model VII
    The Idealizing Assumptions
    The Concept of Power in Model VII
    Three Questions
    The Problem of Loyalty of the Forces of Coercion
    The Rebellion of the Forces of Coercion Against the Political Authority
    A Civil Society and a Military Community

12. Factions Within Authority:
    Materialist-Institutionalist Model VIII
    An Unwritten Simplification
    The Concept of Faction
    The Principle of Recruitment to a Faction
    The Development of a Faction
    Interfactional Struggle
    A Program as an Ideology of a Faction
    The Social Function of a Faction Toward Authority
    The Social Function of a Faction Toward Civil Society
Part Five  A Certain Historical Approximation:
The Development of the Soviet Union

13. Power and Civil Society in Soviet History:
An Interpretation in Terms of Models I–II

The Development of Objective Social Relations in the Soviet Union  165
The Soviet Institutional-Political System  168
Perestroika: An Interpretation  171
An Attempt at Prediction  173

14. The Social-Political Consciousness.
Real Marxism in Real Socialism:
An Interpretation in Terms of Model III  177

Introductory Remarks  177
Changes in the Official Ideology in Socialism  178
The Consciousness of the Masses: From Marx to Christ  184

15. The Soviet Empire and the Soviet Bloc:
An Interpretation in Terms of Models IV–V  187

The Range of Approximate Application of Model IV  187
The Exports of the Socialist Revolution  187
Aggression Is Mainly an Expansion of Internal Enslavement  188 “Peaceful Coexistence” and the Idea of a Common European Home  188
The National Movements as Movements of the Citizens of Provinces  189
Neither the Normal State nor the Evil Empire  190
Remarks on the Socialist Bloc  191
A Prediction  192

16. Models of Socialism and Its History:
A Divergence  195

A Divergence of Models I–V from the Social History of the Soviet Union  195
Introducing the Property Dimension into Political Society  196
The NEP Effect  197
Contents

Conclusions

The Concept of Power: Hypotheses and Definitions 199
Limitations of the Outlined Theory of Power 200
On the Institutionalist and Idealist Approaches to Socialism 202

Appendices

I. Enslavement, Charisma, and the Internalization of Norm 205
II. The Concept of Class Loop and the Rotating Elites Theory 207
III. Social Consciousness as a Hypostasis 209
IV. Explaining Why Democracy Is (Normally) Peaceful 211
V. On the Notion of Totalitarianism 213
VI. How Theories of the Historical Process Are (Methodologically) Possible 217

Bibliography 223

Index 231