Contents

PART I  INTRODUCTION
1  Initial Remarks, Aims and Organization of the Study
   Introduction
   Objectives and organization

PART II  THE LABOUR MARKET
2  The Gender Organization of the Swedish Labour Market
   Women's rising gainful employment
   Part-time work—trait of mothers of toddlers
   Gender distribution according to sector and occupation
   Gender differentiation, salary and position
   The repetition of gender discrimination
   Gender, the division of work and power
   The need for labour and the struggle for equality
   From a structural gender orientation to a feminist perspective

Part III  THEORETICAL FOUNDATIONS
3  Contexts of Living and Life-Forms
   Contexts of living
   The concept and analysis of life-forms
   Different life-forms
   Family business or self-employed life-form
   Employee and career life-forms
   Bourgeois life-form
   The transformation of life-forms
   The family's function in the life-forms
   Several types of women's praxis
   "Back-up" and housewife's praxis
   The praxis of gainfully employed women
   Limitations in the theory of life-forms
   Masculine foundations
   The space where women can act
   An active subject
Women's Strategies
Women's subjugation and strategies at a social level
Male domination and strategies of the individual personality
Male domination and interpersonal relations between women
Women's interpersonal solidarity and strategies for combating male domination
The intertwining of gender and class in women's strategies

A Feminist-Geographic Perspective of Space and Time
Time-geography
The time-geographic approach
Constraints or limits on actions
Projects
Descriptive model
Time-geography and the context of women's lives
Concepts of time and women's adaptation

PART IV  EMPIRICAL STUDY

Method
The design and implementation of the study
Steps in collecting the material
Selection principles for the interviews in Kristianstad
The nature of the interviews
Steps in the process of analysis
A qualitative analysis
The area of investigation—the municipal district of Kristianstad

The Work Place and Gainful Employment
Women in the working class—the employee life-form
The content and organization of work
Experience of the work situation
Conclusions—subordination in employee life-form concealed
Women in the middle strata—the career-oriented life-form
The content and organization of work
Experiencing the work situation
Conclusions—inclination towards a career life-form with concealed subordination and a touch of protest
Commentary—women and occupational hierarchies

The Dwelling, Housework and Leisure
Women in the working class—the employee life-form
Dwelling and home
Housework and leisure
Conclusions—a family orientation in the employee life-form
Women in the middle strata—the career life-form 138
Dwelling and home 138
Housework and leisure 143
Conclusions—A family orientation with individuation in the mediating and career-oriented life-forms 148
Commentary—Home reflects a woman's identity 149

9 The Organization of Everyday Living 152
The daily lives of women in space and time 152
An ordinary day in the lives of three women 152
The use of time 160
Time-diaries' portrayal of gainful employment and housework 164
Conclusions—How a family orientation is linked to gainful employment 168
Organizational obstacles 169
Is it good for the children? 170
Can one find enough time? 173
How do women manage? 178
Conclusions—Similar organizational obstacles but various solutions 183
Commentary—Fitting the pieces together, daily living—a theme with variations 183

PART V SYNTHESIS 187
10 Life-Forms and Strategies Specific to Women 189
Life-forms specific to women 189
Women's strategies 191
Male domination and female subjugation 194
The concept of adaptive strategy 196
The temporal dimension 197
The spatial dimension 200
A model of a modern life-form? 202
A wealth of new questions 205

References 207