Contents

Tables and Figures / v

Abbreviations / xi

Preface / xiii

Introduction

1. Theoretical Frameworks and Empirical Contexts of Trade Unionism
   Stephen Frenkel / 3

Part I. Developing Countries

2. Chinese Trade Unions: Structure and Function in a Decade of Economic Reform, 1979–89
   Malcolm Warner / 59

3. Union Unevenness and Insecurity in Thailand
   Andrew Brown and Stephen Frenkel / 82

4. State Regulation and Union Fragmentation in Malaysia
   Ponniab Arudsothy and Craig R. Littler / 107

Part II. Newly Industrialized Countries

5. The Korean Union Movement in Transition
   Hwang-Joe Kim / 133

6. The Resurgence and Fragility of Trade Unions in Taiwan
   Stephen Frenkel, Jon-Chao Hong, and Bib-Ling Lee / 162
Contents

7. Dependent Capitalism, a Colonial State, and Marginal Unions: The Case of Hong Kong
   David A. Levin and Stephen Chiu / 187

8. Corporatist Trade Unionism in Singapore
   Chris Leggett / 223

Part III. Advanced Peripheral Countries

9. Australian Trade Unionism and the New Social Structure of Accumulation
   Stephen Frenkel / 249

10. Unions in Crisis: Deregulation and Reform of the New Zealand Union Movement
    Nigel Haworth / 282

Part IV. Overview

11. Variations in Patterns of Trade Unionism: A Synthesis
    Stephen Frenkel / 309

    Notes / 347

    References / 371

    Contributors / 397

    Index / 401
Tables and Figures

Tables

1.1 Development by country, 1990, 19
1.2 Foreign trade patterns of countries in the Asia-Pacific (ESCAP) region, 1977–86, 20
1.3 Foreign trade links in the Asia-Pacific region, 1990, 21
2.1 Inflation in the People’s Republic of China, 1978–87, 62
2.2 Output per worker in industrial enterprises in China, 1978–88, 63
2.3 Average real wages of staff and workers in publicly owned units in China, 1978–88, 64
2.4 Population of the People’s Republic of China, 1978–88, 65
2.5 Index values of industrial output in China, by broad sector, 1978–88, 66
2.6 Gross material product and national income of China, 1978–88, 67
2.7 Beijing Workers’ Autonomous Federation Provisional Memorandum, 78
3.1 Unions in Thailand, by region, sector, and type, 1989, 88
4.1 GDP growth in Malaysia, by industrial sector, 1971–90, 109
4.2 Labor force structure and union strength in Malaysia, 1957–90, 110
4.3 Number of unions and union density in Malaysia, by major industries, 1985, 115
4.4 Newly registered and deregistered unions in Malaysia, 1957–69, 116
4.5 Trade union structure in Malaysia, 1985, 126
5.1 Labor disputes in Korea, by establishment size, 1987–89, 140
5.2 Union membership and rate of growth in Korea, by industry, 1987–89, 143
5.3 Councils of trade unions in Korea, by region and industry, 1988, 146
5.4 Labor disputes in Korea, by issues, 1975–89, 150
5.5 Gross and net wage differentials in Korea, by union versus nonunion status, 1987 and 1988, 155
5.6 Net wage differentials in unionized and nonunionized sectors of Korea, by occupation, establishment size, and workers' level of education, 1988, 157
6.1 Number of unions and union members in Taiwan, by union type and density, 1979–89, 170
7.1 Union density in Hong Kong, by major industrial sector, 1976, 1981, and 1986, 192
7.2 Membership trends in the thirteen largest Hong Kong unions, 1978–88, 193
7.3 Union density in Hong Kong, by sex and industry, 1976, 1981, and 1986, 194
7.4 Union membership concentration in Hong Kong, 1978 and 1988, 196
7.5 Trade union federations in Hong Kong, 1988, 197
7.6 Sources and growth of trade union income in Hong Kong, 1988, 202
8.1 Structure of unions in Singapore in 1989 and years registered, 227
8.2 Number of unions, membership by affiliation, and union density in Singapore, 1979–88, 230
8.3 Union membership in Singapore unions, by size, 1980 and 1989, 231
8.4 Ten largest unions in Singapore, by membership, September 1989, 232
8.5 Percentages of employed persons fifteen years and older in Singapore, by occupation, 1980 and 1989, 234
8.6 Percentages of employed persons fifteen years and older in Singapore, by industry, 1980 and 1989, 235
8.7 Union membership in Singapore, by industry, 1979 and 1986, 236
9.1 Union density in Australia, by selected characteristics, 1976–90, 266
9.2 Composition of union membership in Australia, 1979–89, 267
9.3 Membership trends in the twenty largest Australian unions, 1979–89, 268
9.4 Union membership concentration in Australia, 1980–90, 269
Tables and Figures

9.5 Financial indicators of the internal structure of selected unions in Australia, 1988–89, 274
10.2 Absolute and percentage changes in the number of full-time employees in New Zealand unions, by sector, 1985–88, 286
10.3 Working days “lost” in New Zealand, per thousand employees, because of industrial disputes, 1977–90, 287
10.4 Registered settlements in New Zealand, by document type, 1984–85 and 1988–89, 296
11.1 Union configurations in ten Asia-Pacific countries, 1989–90, 311

Figures

1.1A Economic growth per capita in China, Thailand, and Malaysia, 1981–90, 28
1.1B Balance of payments on current accounts in China, Thailand, and Malaysia, 1981–90, 29
1.1C Debt service ratios of China, Thailand, and Malaysia, 1981–90, 30
1.2A Rates of inflation in China, Thailand, and Malaysia, 1981–90, 31
1.2B Unemployment rates in China, Thailand, and Malaysia, 1979–90, 32
1.3A Economic growth per capita in Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Singapore, 1981–90, 34
1.3B Balance of payments on current accounts in Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Singapore, 1981–90, 35
1.3C Debt service ratios of Korea, Taiwan, and Singapore, 1981–90, 36
1.4A Rates of inflation in Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Singapore, 1981–90, 37
1.4B Unemployment rates in Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Singapore, 1979–90, 38
1.5A Economic growth per capita in Australia and New Zealand, 1981–89, 41
1.5B Balance of payments on current accounts in Australia and New Zealand, 1981–90, 42
1.5C  Debt service ratios of Australia and New Zealand, 1981–89, 43
1.6A  Rates of inflation in Australia and New Zealand, 1981–90, 44
1.6B  Unemployment rates in Australia and New Zealand, 1979–90, 45
1.7   Political structures and development strategies of nine Asia-Pacific countries, 1979–90, 48
2.1   Reconstruction of the ACFTU in China after 1949, 68
2.2   Decision-making structure of a Chinese state enterprise, 71
3.1   Industrial disputes and strikes in Thailand, 1980–89, 96
3.2   Working days “lost” in Thailand because of industrial disputes, 1980–89, 97
4.1   Number of unions in West Malaysia by sector, 1946–79, 112
4.2   Union membership in West Malaysia by sector, 1946–79, 113
4.3   Structures of Malaysian unions and geographical divisions, 119
4.4   Structure of PUSPANITA, 124
5.1   Local unions in Korea, 1963–89, 141
5.2   Union density in Korea, by gender, 1970–89, 142
5.3   Industrial disputes in Korea, by types of action, 1975–89, 152
6.1   Size distribution of enterprise unions in Taiwan, 1988, 173
6.2   Size distribution of occupational unions in Taiwan, 1988, 174
6.3   Industrial disputes in Taiwan, by major causes, 1980–89, 181
7.1   Union membership and density in Hong Kong, 1976–89, 191
7.2   Distribution of unions and union membership of the FTU, TUC, and other Hong Kong federations, 1978, 1983, and 1988, 198
7.3   Distribution of trade union expenditures in Hong Kong, 1980 and 1988, 203
7.4   Strikes in Hong Kong, 1970–89, 205
7.5   Growth in productivity and real wages in Hong Kong, 1979–88, 206
7.6   Industrial accidents in Hong Kong, 1979–88, 207
8.1   Changes in GDP, productivity, and average monthly earnings in Singapore, 1980–89, 238
9.1   Working days “lost” per thousand employees in Australia because of industrial disputes, 1979–90, 264
11.1  Union patterns in ten Asia-Pacific countries, 1990, 312
11.2 Probable changes in union patterns in ten Asia-Pacific countries during the 1990s, 336