Contents

Notes on contributors vii

Introduction 1
  Ann Oakley

1 Interpretations of welfare and approaches to the state, 1870–1920 18
  Sheila Rowbotham

2 Lessons from the past: the rise and fall of the classic welfare state in Britain, 1945–76 37
  Rodney Lowe

3 Conservatives and consensus: the politics of the National Health Service, 1951–64 54
  Charles Webster

4 Local voices in the National Health Service: needs, effectiveness and sufficiency 75
  Jennie Popay and Gareth Williams

5 Priority setting for health gain 98
  Chris Ham, Frank Homigsbam and David Thompson

6 Obstacles to medical audit: British doctors speak 127
  Nick Black and Elizabeth Thompson

7 Choice, needs and enabling: the new community care 147
  Jane Lewis

8 Making sense of the new politics of education 181
  Geoff Whitty, Sharon Gewirtz and Tony Edwards

9 The relationship between research and policy: the case of unemployment and health 201
  Mel Bartley

Index 223