

CONTENTS

PART 1: INTRODUCTION	15
A. Purpose and Plan of the Study	15
B. The Structure of Corporate Governance in Germany	16
I. The Position of Corporations in the German Economy	16
1. Relative Position of the Aktiengesellschaft (Public Limited Company)	16
2. Preferences for Different Forms of Business Organization	27
II. Historical Perspective on Trends and Forces Relevant for the Current System of Corporate Governance	33
1. National Trends and Forces in Company Law	33
2. Directives of the European Communities and Corporate Governance	39
III. Current Legal Models of Corporate Governance: Codetermination Variants at the Public Limited Company	41
1. Supervisory-Board Codetermination	42
2. Works-Council Codetermination	44
PART 2: FORCES IN CORPORATE GOVERNANCE	47
A. Shareholders and Intensity of Control	47
I. Corporate Finance and Market Structures	47
1. Introduction	47
2. Capital Structures	47
3. External Equity Financing	53
a) Venture Capital Market	53
b) Going Public and Rights Issues	56
c) Shareholder Structure	62
d) Influence of Banks and Insurance Companies	65
e) Interlocking Shareholdings	67
4. Assessment and Proposals	70
II. The Law and the Distribution of Competences	72
1. The Public Corporation as Paradigm	72

2. The Corporation Dominated by a Shareholder	76
3. Groups of Companies and the Law	77
a) Introduction	77
b) Structure of the Relevant Rules	79
c) Groups of Companies Based on Contracts	82
d) Groups of Companies Based on Actual Dependence	91
4. Assessment and Proposals	93
III. Ownership and Control of the Corporation	95
1. Control by the Shareholder Meeting	95
a) Legal Framework	95
b) Attendance and Participants Groups	97
c) Banks	99
aa) Proxy Voting by Banks	99
bb) Evidence of Influence	100
d) Investment Companies	103
e) Insurance Companies	106
f) Other Voters	107
2. Control by the Supervisory Board	109
a) Legal Framework	109
b) Structure and Size of the Supervisory Board	111
c) Codetermination	112
d) Banks and Insurance Companies	113
e) Effectiveness and Suggestions	116
aa) Organization of the Board	117
bb) Election and Competence of Members of the Supervisory Board	118
cc) Information Sources and Quality	119
dd) Process of Decisions	120
3. Control by Takeovers	121
a) Definition	121
b) Control Mechanism and Shareholder Value	121
c) Legal Framework	122
d) Empirical Relevance	124
e) The Observable Control Intensity and Possible Explanations	128
4. Control by Active Investors	131
a) Introduction	131
b) The Role of Banks	132
c) The Role of Insurance Companies	133
d) Shareholders' Associations	134
e) Other Potential Activists	135
f) Effectiveness of Control of Active Investors	136
5. Assessment and Proposals	137

B. Lenders as a Force in Corporate Governance	141
I. Debt and Efficiency	141
II. Debt and Equity: The Bundesbank Financial Statistics	142
III. Other Empirical Evidence on Lenders as a Force in Corporate Governance	152
IV. Other Related Issues	158
C. Intercompany Product Markets	163
I. Introduction	163
II. General Analysis	164
III. Industry Analyses of the Component Supplying Industry	168
1. Comparative Analysis of Several Industries	168
a) Dependence on the Most Important Manufacturers	168
b) Size of Demanders	170
c) Continuity of the Supplier-Manufacturer Relationship	171
d) Supplier Rating Systems	172
e) Just-in-Time Arrangements	172
f) Suppliers' Position towards their Own Suppliers	173
2. Automotive Industry	178
IV. Assessment	192
D. Employees as a Force in Corporate Governance	194
I. Fundamental Characteristics of the German Employment System	195
1. The System of Vocational Training	196
a) Initial Vocational Training	197
b) Further Vocational Training of Employed	203
2. The Stability of the Employer-Employee-Relationship	206
3. Compensation Schemes: Seniority or Qualification Based?	211
4. Occupational and Internal Labor Markets - A Summary	216
II. Workers' Voice in Decision Making	217
1. The Role of Trade Unions	218
2. Codetermination at the Company Level: The Role of Works Councils	222

→ 3. Constraints on the Scope of Corporate Decision Making - The Example of Internal and External Employment Flexibility	226
→ 4. Synopsis: Workers' Participation in Germany	228

PART 3: SUMMARY AND OUTLOOK 231

A. Required Conditions for and Assessment of the Current System of Corporate Governance in Germany 231

B. Adaptability to Developing Countries and to Countries in Transition 240

Appendix: Survey of Literature 243

Literature 255

Figures

Figure 1:	Structure of adjusted gross value added 1993	17
Figure 2:	Shares of major industries in the contribution of business gross value added 1993	17
Figure 3:	Contribution to taxable sales 1992 by firm size	18
Figure 4:	Firms' shares in total taxable sales 1992 by form of business organization	19
Figure 5:	Shares in taxable sales by form of business organization 1962, 1980 and 1992	21
Figure 6:	Shares of form of business organization in taxable sales by industries (1992)	22
Figure 7:	Distribution of taxable sales 1992 on firm size brackets by form of business organization	23
Figure 8:	Shares of GmbH and AG in statutory capital in 1953, 1960, 1970, 1980 and 1992	24
Figure 9:	Major forms of business organization	27
Figure 10:	Internal financing in percent of total financing	51
Figure 11:	Net increase in debt in percent of total financing	51
Figure 12:	Venture capital in Germany	54
Figure 13:	Transactions in Germany	125
Figure 14:	M&A Transactions in Germany	126
Figure 15:	Bank liabilities to total assets for firms of different size in percent	151
Figure 16:	Equity to total assets for firms of different size in percent	152
Figure 17:	Gross profit margins for firms of different size	154
Figure 18:	Vertical specialization in the manufacturing sector 1978-1992	164
Figure 19:	Cumulated abnormal returns of four different types of acquisitions effected from 1973 to 1985	165
Figure 20:	Vertical specialization of car and motor manufacturers 1978-1991	182
Figure 21:	Number of suppliers per component: 1987 and expectations for 1990 and 1995	183
Figure 22:	Characteristics of components supplied and type of contract	185
Figure 23:	Characteristics of components and suppliers R&D involvement	187
Figure 24:	Simultaneous engineering at different categories of suppliers (1993)	189
Figure 25:	Carlife-time contracts at different categories of suppliers (1993)	190
Figure 26:	Counselling by car manufacturers at different categories of suppliers (1993)	190
Figure 27:	Supplier acceptance of several aspects of the cooperation with car manufacturers (1993)	191
Figure 28:	Employment tenure and plant size	210
Figure 29:	Wage curve by age for blue- and white-collar workers	213

Tables

Table 1:	Number of firms and corresponding taxable sales 1992	19
Table 2:	Number of firms by form of business organization and shares in taxable sales 1992	20
Table 3:	Shares in taxable sales by form of business organization 1962, 1980 and 1992	21
Table 4:	Form of business organization of the 100 firms with the highest value added 1990 and 1992	23
Table 5:	Number and statutory capital of limited companies 1980 to 1993	25
Table 6:	German AG and listing 1980 to 1994	26
Table 7:	Financing of Group 1	49
Table 8:	Financing of Group 2	50
Table 9:	Capital structure of Group 1 firms (in percent of total capital)	52
Table 10:	Capital structure of Group 2 firms (in percent of total capital)	52
Table 11:	Re-financing of venture capital companies by sectors in 1994	55
Table 12:	Type of investment in 1994	55
Table 13:	Method of exit in 1994	56
Table 14:	Number and volume of going publics	57
Table 15:	Market capitalization of listed domestic companies	57
Table 16:	Market capitalization in millions of DM by segments	58
Table 17:	Turnover in domestic stocks in milliards of DM	58
Table 18:	Domestic stocks ranked by turnover (in percent of total domestic stock turnover)	59
Table 19:	Number of listed domestic stocks by stock exchange	60
Table 20:	Number of German stocks listed at foreign stock exchanges	60
Table 21:	Stock ownership as measured by nominal value	62
Table 22:	Stock ownership as measured by market value	63
Table 23:	Number of equity stakes in Top 100 companies 1990 and 1992	65
Table 24:	Equity stakes of Allianz AG Holding in 1994	66
Table 25:	Equity stakes of Deutsche Bank AG in 1994	67
Table 26:	Ownership structure of 399 listed German AGs	69
Table 27:	Frequency of interlocking shareholdings via joint ventures 1990 and 1992 (Top 100)	70
Table 28:	The distribution of competences	75
Table 29:	Types of dependence of companies according to the AktG	81
Table 30:	Structure of § 304 AktG	86
Table 31:	Structure of the regulations in §§ 311-318 AktG	92
Table 32:	Present shares at the shareholder meeting in percent of total shares	97
Table 33:	Voting blocks at the shareholder meetings of the 24 largest widely held stock corporations in 1992	98
Table 34:	Percentage of voting rights exercised by banks in general meetings of the largest widely held stock corporations in 1992	101
Table 35:	Votings rights exercised by different groups of banks in general meetings of the largest widely held stock corporations in 1992	102

Table 36:	Voting rights of the five largest banks in their own shareholder meeting in 1992	102
Table 37:	Ownership of all investment funds of the 24 largest widely held stock corporations in 1992	104
Table 38:	Percent of shares owned by all investment funds of the 24 largest widely held stock corporations in 1992	105
Table 39:	Percent of votes of foreign banks at the shareholder meetings of the 24 largest widely held stock corporations in 1992	108
Table 40:	Size of the supervisory board in the largest 492 companies in 1989	111
Table 41:	Number of mandates in the 100 largest companies	111
Table 42:	Number of mandates in the supervisory board held by the following companies in the 100 largest companies	113
Table 43:	Persons with the most mandates in the largest 492 companies at the end of 1989	114
Table 44:	Distribution of mandates per person in 1989	115
Table 45:	Net investment and sources of finance of all German firms in Germany	143
Table 46:	Flow-of-funds measures of credit market control of German firms	145
Table 47:	Financial assets of all German firms at the end of year	146
Table 48:	Liabilities and shareholders equity of all German firms at the end of year	147
Table 49:	Composition of liabilities of all German firms	147
Table 50:	Balance sheet of selected German companies	148
Table 51:	Balance sheet of selected German companies	149
Table 52:	Composition of capital of German companies	150
Table 53:	Percentage distribution of the number of bank connections for firms of different size in Germany, late 1970s	159
Table 54:	Activities most appropriate for future outsourcing as stated by firms in 1993	166
Table 55:	Stakes of manufacturers in their suppliers	167
Table 56:	Vertical specialization (VS) in selected industries 1977, 1986 and 1992	168
Table 57:	Dependence on a certain number of demanders for suppliers of different size (1989)	169
Table 58:	Concentration of sales to the three largest customers for suppliers of different size (1989)	169
Table 59:	Share of large-scale enterprises in percent of top-three clients (1989)	170
Table 60:	Use of supplier rating systems in different industries (1989)	172
Table 61:	Just-in-time arrangements in different industries (1989)	173
Table 62:	Just-in-time arrangements in different industries (approximately 1988)	173
Table 63:	Suppliers' rating of their negotiating position towards their own suppliers in different industries (1989)	174
Table 64:	Suppliers' rating of their negotiating position towards their own suppliers for firms of different size (1989)	174

Table 65:	Suppliers' expectations as of 1989	175
Table 66:	Current and expected numbers of suppliers (1993)	176
Table 67:	Current and expected features of the manufacturer-supplier relationship (1993)	176
Table 68:	Industries with the highest incidence of non-price coordination features of the manufacturer-supplier relationship (1993)	177
Table 69:	Procurement expectations of German passenger car manufacturers (about 1989)	179
Table 70:	Requirements expected by the component suppliers (about 1990)	179
Table 71:	Synopsis of internal production rates of German passenger car manufacturers	180
Table 72:	Number of direct component suppliers	182
Table 73:	Single sourcing	184
Table 74:	R&D expenditures of car manufacturers in 1990	186
Table 75:	Demands on module suppliers (1990)	188
Table 76:	Qualification of German employees	197
Table 77:	The transition of school-leavers into vocational education and employment (1991)	198
Table 78a-c:	Proportion of apprentices leaving the training firm	201
Table 79a:	The income of skilled and semi-skilled blue-collar workers in industry compared to unskilled workers in 1993 (former federal territory ( Alte Länder ))	202
Table 79b:	Qualification-based income structure in 1989	202
Table 80:	Incidence of further vocational training	205
Table 81:	Enterprise tenure in several countries (1991)	206
Table 82:	Share of employees that switched plant in the last two years (1993)	207
Table 83:	Differences in earnings due to pay grades	212
Table 84:	Difference in earnings between employees with tenure shorter than 1 year and employees with tenure larger than 20 years within one and the same enterprise	214
Table 85:	Union density	219
Table 86:	Collective bargaining coverage rates in Germany	219
Table 87:	Sectoral wage structure	221
Table 88:	Unionization of works councils	223
Table 89:	Rights of the works council according to the Works Constitution Law of 1988	224
Table 90:	Stringency of employment protection - the position of Germany	228