

TABLE OF CONTENT

List of Figures	XV
List of Tables.....	XIX

Introduction	1
Paul J. J. Welfens

I. Deregulation and Market Dynamics in Telecommunications

A: Competition, Privatization and Foreign Direct Investment in Network Industries	11
Paul J.J. Welfens
1. Introduction.....	11
2. Network Theory, Technological Progress and Competition	15
2.1 Technological Progress and Competition.....	19
2.2 Problems of Standardization and Interconnection.....	20
3. Competition and Privatization	21
3.1 Telecommunications	22
3.2 Energy	27
3.3 Transportation	33
4. Foreign Direct Investment in Network Industries	35
4.1 Importance of Multinational Companies.....	35
4.2 Foreign Direct Investment in Europe vs. FDI in Transforming Economies	39
5. Conclusions.....	44
Appendix	45
Comments	55
Pieter H. M. Ruys
B: Privatisation, Competition and Regulation in Transforming Economies: The Cases of the Electricity Supply Industry and Telecommunications	57
Piotr Jasinski
1. Introduction.....	57
2. Competition and Regulation in STEs	57

3.	Systemic Transformation	59
4.	Regulation Sensu Largo	61
5.	Regulation Sensu Stricto	65
6.	The ESI and Telecommunications	66
6.1	The Electricity Supply Industry	66
6.2	Telecommunications	69
	Comments	75
	Horst Brezinski
C:	Deregulation, Privatization and Internationalization of European Telecoms Markets	79
	Cornelius Graack
1.	Introduction	79
2.	Developments on the National Level of EU Member States	80
2.1	Developments in EU Countries Characterized by Competing Fixed Network Operators	81
2.2	Strategies and Adjustment Policies of Incumbent Telecoms Operators in Anticipation of 1998	86
2.3	Privatization of EU Fixed Network Operators	93
2.4	Internationalization Strategies and International Cooperation	96
3.	Impacts of the Liberalization and Privatization Process on EU Telecoms Market Structures	99
4.	Conclusions	105
	Comments	111
	Dieter Elixmann
D:	Full Competition in Telecommunications: The Experience of Finland	115
	Martin Andersson
E:	Full Competition in Telecommunications: The US Perspective	123
	Jaqueline Spindler
1.	Introduction	123
1.1	Convergence of Technology/Convergence of Regulatory Frameworks	123
1.2	WTO Agreement	123
1.3	U.S. Implementation of Telecom Act: Lessons for Other Countries	124

2.	The Telecom Act - Key Principles	124
3.	Rollout of the Trilogy	125
3.1	Interconnection	125
3.2	Universal Service	126
3.3	Access Reform	127
4.	How the Trilogy Principles Apply to Other Countries	127
4.1	Interconnection	127
4.2	Universal Service	128
4.3	Access Reform	128
5.	"Best Practices" for Other Countries	129
F:	Market Entry in the Presence of a "Dominant" Network Operator in Telecommunications	131
	Günter Knieps
1.	Introduction	131
2.	Excessive Regulation Due to an Oversized Regulatory Basis	131
3.	The Necessity for a Symmetric Regulatory Approach	133
3.1	The Basic Concept of the Disaggregated Regulatory Approach	134
3.2	Contestable Telecommunications Markets versus Monopolistic Bottlenecks	135
4.	The Dangers of an Inadequate Application of Regulatory Rules Based on the Concept of Dominant Network Carriers	137
4.1	Interconnection of Networks	137
4.2	Universal Services	140
	Comments	145
	Jürgen Müller
1.	Is Market Power Regulation Enough?	145
2.	Will Contestable Markets be Competitive?	146
3.	Implementing Regulation	147
4.	Is Structural Regulation Necessary?	148
G:	Electricity Companies and Railway Networks as Newcomers in Telecommunications	149
	Morten Falch
1.	Introduction	149
2.	Current Competition from the Network Facilities of Railway and Electricity Companies	150
3.	The Cost Structure of a Telecoms Network	154

4.	The Role of Investment Costs.....	157
5.	Changing Demand Conditions.....	160
6.	Conditions for Effective Competition.....	162
7.	Conclusion	164
	Comments	167
	Oliver Lorz
H:	Liberalization of Telecommunications in Central Europe	171
	Jerzy Kubasik
1.	Introduction.....	171
2.	The Need for Changes	173
3.	Objectives in Restructuring the Telecommunications Sector.....	174
4.	Networks Developments.....	179
5.	Regulation: Opening Up Competition	180
6.	Liberalization in Practice: The Example of Poland.....	184
7.	Privatization of the National Network Operator: Different Methods.....	185
8.	Conclusions.....	186
I:	Regulation of the Telecommunication Sector in Russia:
	Direct Foreign Investments and Options for Competition	189
	Svetlana Petuhova and Alexander Vronetz
1.	Introduction.....	189
2.	System of Control and Regulation in the Telecommunication Complex.....	191
2.1	Legal and Organizational Basis of the Branch	191
2.2	Problems Associated with Demonopolization and Anti-monopoly Policy.....	196
3.	Economic Indicators of Business Activity within the Telecom Sector ..	199
3.1	Privatization, Ownership and Structure of the Telecom Sector	199
3.2	Structure and Dynamics of Investment Activity	202
3.3	Tariff and Pricing Policy in the Telecommunications Branch	209
4.	Direct Foreign Investments in Development of the Communications Branch.....	217
5.	Prospects for Telecommunications Development in Russia.....	222
6.	Conclusion	228
	Comments	231
	Wolfgang Pfaffenberger

J:	Systemic Transformation and Direct Foreign Investment in Russia: Problems and Solutions	233
	Ruslan Grinberg
1.	Market Reforms and Macroeconomic Stabilization in the Central and Eastern European Countries and Russia: Comparing Intermediate Results	233
2.	The Climate of Investment in Russia: Analysis and Conclusions	240
3.	Foreign Direct Investment in Russia	244
4.	Regulation and Management of Foreign Investment in Russia	252
5.	Perfection and Development of Interaction with Foreign Capital	259
	Comments	267
	Herbert Brücker
1.	Introduction	267
2.	Why Has Stabilisation Failed in Russia?	267
3.	Was Privatisation and Institutional Reform a Failure?	268
4.	FDI: Is the Glass Half Full or Half Empty?	269
5.	Are Investment Conditions Special in Transition Economies?	271
6.	Why is Foreign Investment so Low in Russia?	272
7.	What Can We Recommend as Policy?	273
K:	The Role of Foreign Investment in the Russian Internet	275
	Svetlana Petuhova
1.	Introduction	275
2.	Analysis of the Modern State of the Internet in Russia	277
3.	Financing of the Internet Development	283
4.	Prospects of the Russian Internet Development	286
5.	Conclusions	290
L:	Panel Discussion: Competition in European Telecommunications and Market Perspective	293
	Competition in Liberalised Telecommunications Markets	293
	Dimitri Ypsilanti
	Copyright and Related Rights in the Information Society on a European and International Level	295
	Bert Eichhorn

II. Liberalizing the Energy Sector

M:	Vertical Integration in the Electricity Supply Industry: Competition and Investment Issues	299
	Alison Sinclair
1.	Why the Interest in Vertical Integration?.....	299
2.	Arguments for Vertical Integration from the Perspective of the Firm ...	302
3.	Social Welfare Implications of Vertical Integration: A Tradeoff Between Competition and Investment Efficiency?.....	307
4.	Policy Conclusions	311
	Appendix:.....	313
	Comments	323
	Peter Palinkas
N:	Privatization and Modernization of the Electricity Sector in the CEE Transition Countries	329
	Zdenek Hruby
1.	Introduction.....	329
2.	Energy Supply and Demand	330
3.	Power Sector	332
4.	The Environment	334
5.	Tariffs.....	334
6.	Electricity Privatization and Investment Opportunities: Countries Overview	336
7.	Summary of Regional Deregulation and Privatization Trends	338
8.	Capacity Construction and Rehabilitation	340
9.	Summary of CEE's Available Investment Needs in Power Sector	341
O:	Russian Electricity Industry: Towards Market Economics	345
	Vladimir Voloshin
1.	Structure of the Electricity Industry and Degree of Internationalisation in Russia.....	345
1.1	Branch and Regional Structure of the Power Industry	345
1.2	Intra-branch Proportions.....	351
1.3	The Main Problems of the Power Industry Development.....	355
1.4	Future Opportunities.....	360
1.5	International Aspects.....	364

2.	Towards Competition, Privatisation and Direct Foreign Investment	368
2.1	Natural Monopolies and Competition	368
2.2	International Experience with Building Electric Power and Capacity Wholesale Markets	371
2.3	Key Problems in Reforming the Russian Power Industry	375
2.4	Privatization and Transfer of Government Rights for Property ...	378
2.5	Building Competitive Power Markets	382
2.6	Wholesale and Retail Markets Regulation	386
2.7	Financing	389
2.8	Pricing	392
	Comments	399
	Misha Belkindas
P:	Restructuring Infrastructure in Transition Economies	401
	José Carbajo and Steven Fries
1.	Introduction	401
2.	Challenges in Restructuring Infrastructure	402
2.1	Telecommunications	402
2.2	Electric Power	406
2.3	Transportation	412
2.4	Summary	418
3.	Tariff Reform and Restructuring through Commercial Infrastructure ...	418
3.1	Political Influence, Tariff Reform and Access to Finance	419
3.2	Commercialisation, Private Participation and Restructuring	420
3.3	Private Participation and Progress in Transition	425
3.4	Summary	427
4.	Competition and Regulation	427
4.1	Telecommunications	428
4.2	Electric Power	432
4.3	Transport	437
5.	Summary and Conclusions	442
	Comments	449
	Paul J.J. Welfens
Q:	Lessons from Restructuring the Energy Sector in East Germany ...	453
	Georg Erdmann
1.	Introduction	453
2.	Change in the East German Energy Sector	453

3.	Factors Favoring the Changes.....	458
4.	Unresolved Issues and Problems	461

III. Changes in the Transportation Sector

R:	The Regulation of the Privatised Railways in Britain.....	467
	George Yarrow
1.	Introduction.....	467
2.	General Background	468
	2.1 The Reorganisation in Broad Outline.....	468
	2.2 New Bodies	469
3.	The Regulatory Structure.....	470
	3.1 The Rail Regulator	470
	3.2 The Franchising Director.....	473
	3.3 Moderation of Competition.....	474
4.	Interactions Among the Companies in the Restructured Industry.....	475
	4.1 The Franchise Agreements.....	475
	4.2 Dealings between Railtrack and TOCs	478
	4.2.1 General Principles.....	479
	4.2.2 Access Agreements.....	480
	4.3 Dealings between ROSCOs and TOCs	482
	4.4 Direct Agreements Between the Franchising Director and ROSCOs.....	482
5.	Preservation of Network Benefits.....	483
6.	The Position in the Freight Business	484
7.	In Conclusion.....	485
S:	Russian Railway and Transportation	487
	Lev Resnikov
T:	Intramodal Competition and the Reform of the German Railway System: Problems, Policy Options and Results.....	499
	Andreas Brenck
1.	Introduction.....	499
2.	Some Characteristics of the Railway System	500
3.	Restructuring the Railway System: Necessity and Options.....	501
4.	The Railway Reform in Germany.....	504
5.	Intramodal Competition and the Need for Access Regulation	509

6.	Intramodal Competition and Access Regulation	511
7.	Conclusions.....	515
U:	Material Intensity of Transportation and Implications for Sustainable Mobility in Europe	519
	Hartmut Stiller
1.	Introduction.....	519
2.	Material Intensity as a Screening Indicator for Environmental Impact Potential	519
3.	Indicating Environmental Impact Potential of Material Flows	520
4.	Methodology.....	521
	4.1 Service Unit and Target Question	521
	4.2 Allocation	523
	4.3 Lifetime of Infrastructures and Vehicles.....	524
5.	Results.....	525
6.	Implications for Sustainable Mobility	530
	Comments	535
	Rainer Hillebrand
V:	The Transport Multimodal - European Transport Network	539
	Daniel Höltingen
1.	Introduction	539
2.	Trans-European Networks (TENs).....	539
3.	Towards a Multimodal Approach.....	540
4.	Institutional Development of TENs.....	540
5.	Financing TENs	541
6.	Sustainable Mobility	542
7.	Priority Projects.....	542
8.	The Co-Decision Procedure.....	543
9.	Multimodal Nodes and Terminals	544
10.	Internalisation of External Costs.....	545
11.	The Citizens' Network	545
12.	Conclusion	546
	Trans-European Networks and Fiscal Federalism: The Rationale of European Infrastructure Policy	547
	Claus-Friedrich Laaser
1.	Introduction.....	547
2.	The Main Characteristics of TENs	548

3.	What Fiscal Federalism Tells on the Assignment of Economic Policy Tasks to Various Federal Layers	550
4.	Applying Fiscal Federalism to Infrastructure Policy	552
5.	Some Practical Problems with TEN-Policy	554
6.	Conclusions	555
W:	Panel Discussion: Transportation and Electricity Networks: Financing Infrastructure Investments in Europe and Russia	561
	Financing Transportation and Electricity Networks in Europe and Russia	561
	Christoph Schalast
	Project Finance in the Energy Sector of the Transition Economies	563
	Matthias Rußwurm
	Statement on: Transportation Network Financing	567
	Claus-Friedrich Laaser
	List of contributors	570

LIST OF FIGURES

Contribution A

Fig. A1:	Competition in Network Industries	16
Fig. A2:	Layers of Infrastructure Business Relevant for Competition	17
Fig. A3:	Strategic Aspects of Privatization	23
Fig. A4:	Basis for Market Entry in Telecommunications.....	24
Fig. A5:	Partial Overlap of Markets Relevant for Telecommunications.....	26
Fig. A6:	Host and Source Countries of FDI	38
Fig. A7:	Average Costs Pricing as a Problem in Industry with Falling Marginal Costs	45
Fig. A8:	Natural Monopoly with Positive External Effects on the Demand Side (Network Effects)	46

Contribution C

Fig. C1:	Telephone Charges for Business and Residential Customers in Selected European Countries.....	84
Fig. C2:	Developments of International Call Charges from Selected European Countries to the US (in $)	90
Fig. C3:	Strategies of European Network Operators under Different Regulatory Regimes	98
Fig. C4:	Structural Change in the European Fixed Network Segment.....	104
Fig. C5:	International Alliances and Cooperation between EU Network Operators	106

Contribution D

Fig. D1:	Call Charges in Finland.....	117
Fig. D2:	Quality of Service According to Residential Users.....	118

Contribution H

Fig. H1:	Telephone Density in OECD Countries and in Selected CECs, 1989.....	175
----------	--	-----

Contribution I

Fig. I1:	Management Structure of Communication in Russia.....	192
Fig. I2:	Dynamics of Investment Structure into Russian Federation Communication Industry.....	201
Fig. I3:	Comparison of Tariff Baskets in Russia and OECD in 1994.....	217
Fig. I4:	Mobile Network Subscribers Growth.....	220
Fig. I5:	Changes in Foreign Investment Structure	221
Fig. I6:	Development of Local Telephone Communication in Russia.....	223

Contribution M

Fig. M1:	Different Types of Vertical Integration in the Electricity Industry.....	313
----------	---	-----

Contribution O

Fig. O1:	The Distribution of Power Station Capacities by Regions and Types of Fuel	351
Fig. O2:	Structure of TPS Fuels in 1995	352
Fig. O3:	The Dynamics of Worked-out Equipment	357
Fig. O4:	GDP Profile Outlook	361
Fig. O5:	The Possible Structure of Power Stations in Russia in 2010	363
Fig. O6:	Thermal Plant Fuel Outlook to 2010.....	364
Fig. O7:	Electricity Export from Russia	365
Fig. O8:	Model of Organization of Market Based on Principles of “Intersystem Exchanges on Basis of Cooperation“	372
Fig. O9:	Model of Organization of Market Based on Principles of “Grid Reseller Company“.....	374
Fig. O10:	Formation of Authorized Capital of RAO “UPG of Russia“	379
Fig. O11:	Management of the Power Industry of Russia	382
Fig. O12:	Level of Tariffs for Electricity in Russia and Several Developed Countries	393

Contribution P

Fig. P1:	Telecommunications Network Penetration Rates, 1994	403
Fig. P2:	Average Waiting Times for Connection to Telecommunications Services, 1994	404
Fig. P3:	Average Telecommunications Tariffs by Countries Stages of Transition, 1994.....	406
Fig. P4:	Electricity Intensity of Output, 1994.....	408

Fig. P5:	Change in Electricity Consumption, 1989-94	409
Fig. P6:	Electricity Tariffs by Countries' Stages of Transition, 1994	411
Fig. P7:	Rail Network Densities 1993	414
	Road Network Densities 1993	415
Fig. P8:	Change in Freight Transport: 1989 vs. 1994	416
Fig. P9:	Ratio of Average Passenger Fares to Average Freight Rates, according to Countries' Stages of Transition, 1993	417
Fig. P10:	Selective Private Entry in Infrastructure Sectors: Number of Projects	423
Fig. P11:	Cash Privatisations in Infrastructure Sectors: Number of Privatised Enterprises	425
Fig. P12:	Private Participation in Infrastructure by Countries' Stages of Transition: Number of Projects and Privatizations	426

Contribution Q

Fig. Q1:	Primary Energy Supply Structure in Germany	454
Fig. Q2:	Final Energy Consumption Structure in Germany	455
Fig. Q3:	Per-capita Primary Energy Consumption	455
Fig. Q4:	GDP and Primary Energy in East Germany	456
Fig. Q5:	Energy Efficiency in Germany	457
Fig. Q6:	Annual CO ₂ -Emissions in Germany	457
Fig. Q7:	Consumer Price Increase in Germany	458
Fig. Q8:	Energy Price Indices in East Germany 1994	459
Fig. Q9:	Net Production and Labor Force in the East German Industry Sector	460
Fig. Q10:	Wages and Productivity in the Industry Sector of East Germany	461
Fig. Q11:	Electricity Prices for Industrial Customers (1000 kW, 2500 h/a)	462

Contribution T

Fig. T1:	Reorganization of the German Railway System	507
----------	---	-----

Contribution U

Fig. U1:	Material Intensity of Transport Systems - Germany 1992: Abiotic Materials	526
Fig. U2:	Material Intensity of Transport Systems - Germany 1992: Air	526

Fig. U3:	Material Intensity of Transport Systems - Germany 1992: Water	527
Fig. U4:	Material Intensity of Road Infrastructure - Germany 1992: Abiotic Raw Material	528

LIST OF TABLES

Contribution A

Tab. A1:	CEE Investments by Members of Major West European Telecom Operators	41
Tab. A2:	Explaining the Growth of Real Gross Value-Added in the Enterprise Sector in Germany	47
Tab. A3:	Infrastructure	47
Tab. A4:	Railway Density in Europe.....	48
Tab. A5:	Commercial Energy.....	49
Tab. A6:	Railway Subsidies in Europe.....	49
Tab. A7:	Telecom and Internet Densities.....	50
Tab. A8:	Prices of Leased Lines 1997.....	51

Contribution C

Tab. C1:	European Public Switched Telephony Tariffs, (31.01.1996, in $)	87
Tab. C2:	Number of Persons Employed by EU Telecoms Operators (1990-1994, in 1000).....	91
Tab. C3:	Legal Status of European Network Operators.....	94
Tab. C4:	Network Operators and Potential Newcomers at the National Level in EU Countries.....	100

Contribution F

Tab. F1:	The Regulatory Approach of the New German Telecommunications Law	133
Tab. F2:	The Disaggregated Regulatory Approach	135
Tab. F3:	Disaggregated Location of Market Power in Telecommunications Systems.....	137

Contribution G

Tab. G1:	Utilities Entering the Telecoms Market	153
Tab. G2:	Wage Shares by Kind of Activity.....	154
Tab. G3:	Network Costs by Network Components in Percentage	157
Tab. G4:	US Common Carrier Operating Expenses in %	158
Tab. G5:	Distribution of Costs in a Fibre Optic Network	159

Tab. G6:	Forecasting of Investments Needed for a B-ISDN Network with 50 mill. Subscribers.....	159
Tab. G7:	Growth in Public Telecommunication in the OECD Area.....	160
Tab. G8:	Demand Characteristics for Residential and Business Customers	161
Tab. G9:	Fibre Optic Networks in Germany	167

Contribution H

Tab. H1:	Main Telecommunications Operators in Central and Eastern European Countries in 1995	172
Tab. H2:	Development of Telephone Networks in the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland, 1989-95.....	176
Tab. H3:	Development Programs for Telecommunications in the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland.....	177
Tab. H4:	General Regulatory Structure in the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland	181
Tab. H5:	Regulation of the Different Market Segments in Telecommunications in the Czech Republic, Hungary and Poland.....	182

Contribution I

Tab. I1:	Rates of Communications Facilities Development	194
Tab. I2:	Dynamics of Major Indicators of Branch Development	202
Tab. I3:	Growth Rates of Major Indicators, %	202
Tab. I4:	Tariff Baskets for Population	215
Tab. I5:	Tariff Baskets for Self-Supporting Subscribers	216

Contribution J

Tab. J1:	Dynamics of Inflation, Capital Investment and Economic Development	240
Tab. J2:	Dynamics of Direct and Portfolio Investment in Russia.....	245
Tab. J3:	The Most Attractive Branches for Foreign Investors in the Russian Economy	247

Contribution K

Tab. K1:	Change of Foreign Investment Structure.....	283
----------	---	-----

Contribution M

Tab. M1:	Takeover/Merger Proposals in the ESI in England/Wales 1995/1996.....	301
Tab. M2:	Potential Social Benefits and Costs of Vertical Integration.....	307
Tab. M3:	Recent Reforms in the Electricity Supply Industry of Selected Countries	314

Contribution N

Tab. N1:	Energy Intensity Improvements	330
Tab. N2:	World Electricity and Heat Demand and Generation.....	331
Tab. N3:	Nuclear Plants in CEE, 1992.....	332
Tab. N4:	Production of Electricity by Primary Energy Source, 1994.....	333
Tab. N5:	Emissions of Sulphur Dioxide in Selected Countries, 1990	334

Contribution O

Tab. O1:	Structure of Electricity Production in Russia in 1995 by Types of Power Stations.....	346
Tab. O2:	Structure of the Installed Capacity of Power Stations in Russia at the Beginning of 1996	347
Tab. O3:	The Share of the Different RPG in Production and Consumption of Electricity in Russia	348
Tab. O4:	Hydroelectric Potential of Russia.....	350
Tab. O5:	Number of HPS with 30 Years Service Life	358
Tab. O6:	Emissions to Air of the Harmful Substances by Power Industry Enterprises 1994 (thousand t).....	358
Tab. O7:	Power Flows within the CIS (Billion kWh) in 1994	365
Tab. O8:	Structure of the Power Stations as Property of UPG of Russia.....	380
Tab. O9:	Structure of Power Industry Financing by Types of Sources in 1995 (%)	390
Tab. O10:	Energy Pricing in Russia Relative to the 1990 Growth Rate Ratio.....	393

Contribution P

Tab. P1:	Emissions of Sulphur Dioxide in Selected Countries, 1990	412
Tab. P2:	Telecommunications Sector	430
Tab. P3:	Electricity Sector	436
Tab. P4:	Transport Sector	440

Contribution T

Tab. T1:	Reorganization of the Railway Industry in four Countries	503
----------	--	-----

Contribution U

Tab. U1:	Estimation of the Material Intensity of Transfer Installations, Germany 1991-92	529
Tab. U2:	Long-term Marginal Material Intensity in % of the Total.....	529