

---

Contents

LIST OF FIGURES.....	XV
LIST OF TABLES .....	XVI
ABBREVIATIONS.....	XVIII
1 INTRODUCTION: MOTIVATION, OBJECTIVES, APPROACH.....	1
2 TRADE THEORY AND TRADE POLICY IN HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE .....	5
2.1 OVERVIEW .....	5
2.2 THE LAISSEZ FAIRE TRADITION .....	6
2.2.1 Laissez faire and the classical heritage .....	6
2.2.2 Laissez faire and the neoclassical school .....	12
2.3 THE NEOCLASSICAL ANALYSIS OF INTERNATIONAL TRADE.....	16
2.3.1 The Heckscher-Ohlin Theorem .....	16
2.3.2 Theoretical consequences of the Heckscher-Ohlin model .....	20
2.3.3 The gains from trade .....	27
2.4 POSTWAR TRADE THEORY AND POLICY .....	30
2.4.1 Paradoxes, controversies and renewed impulse to free trade .....	30
2.4.2 Commercial policy theory and free trade .....	33
2.5 BEYOND TRADITIONAL TRADE THEORY AND THE FREE TRADE PARADIGM.....	37
3 NEW TRADE THEORY AND STRATEGIC TRADE POLICY.....	39
3.1 OVERVIEW .....	39
3.2 SOME BASIC DEFINITIONS.....	41
3.2.1 Returns to scale at industry level .....	41
3.2.2 Returns to scale at firm level. Leaving perfect competition                 behind .....	44
3.3 IMPORTANT THEORETICAL PROPOSITIONS OF NEW TRADE THEORY.....	47
3.3.1 Explaining intra-industry trade .....	47
3.3.2 Comparative advantages do not necessarily determine the                 specialisation pattern .....	51
3.3.3 Trade partners may gain or lose from trade .....	53
3.4 STRATEGIC TRADE POLICY .....	56

3.4.1	Overview .....	56
3.4.2	The Profit Shifting Argument .....	58
3.4.2.1	The Brander &amp; Spencer Model of Export Subsidies .....	58
3.4.2.2	Krugman's 'Import Protection as Export Promotion' Model .....	64
3.5	CHALLENGES TO STRATEGIC TRADE POLICY .....	68
3.5.1	The problem of sensitivity to model specification .....	68
3.5.2	The threat of retaliation .....	72
3.5.3	Difficulties to identify strategic sectors .....	76
3.6	SCALE, DYNAMICS AND COMPARATIVE ADVANTAGE: KEY ISSUES FOR DEVELOPING COUNTRIES .....	77
4	THE ROLE OF TRADE IN THE DIFFERENT PARADIGMS OF GROWTH .....	81
4.1	OVERVIEW .....	81
4.2	THE NEOCLASSICAL TREATMENT OF GROWTH .....	83
4.2.1	The Solow model .....	83
4.2.2	Extensions to Solow's model .....	90
4.2.3	The impact of trade on growth in the neoclassical system .....	95
4.3	THE THEORY OF ENDOGENOUS GROWTH .....	99
4.3.1	Overview .....	99
4.3.2	A knowledge-based explanation of growth .....	101
4.3.3	The effects of trade in models of endogenous growth .....	108
4.4	SOME TRADE POLICY IMPLICATIONS OF THE NEW VISIONS ON GROWTH .....	113
4.4.1	Engineering comparative advantage .....	113
4.4.2	The infant industry argument revisited .....	117
5	THE AMBIGUOUS EMPIRICAL EVIDENCE OVER THE TRADE-GROWTH RELATIONSHIP .....	121
5.1	OVERVIEW .....	121
5.2	COMPARING THE CONTRASTING ECONOMIC PERFORMANCES OF EAST ASIA AND LATIN AMERICA .....	125
5.3	THE EAST ASIAN MIRACLE: SOME POSSIBLE EXPLANATIONS .....	129
5.3.1	Beyond the outward oriented label: a broad spectrum of trade regimes .....	129
5.3.2	Successful non-intervention: the case of Hong Kong .....	133

5.3.3	Successful involvement: The case of Taiwan .....	136
5.3.4	Successful intervention: The case of Korea .....	139
5.4	LATIN AMERICA'S LOST DECADES: FROM IMPORT SUBSTITUTION TO TRADE LIBERALISATION AND BEYOND.....	142
5.4.1	The limits to import substitution .....	142
5.4.2	Trade liberalisation: Problems and achievements in the case of Chile .....	148
5.4.3	Beyond trade liberalisation .....	151
5.5	TRADE POLICY MAKING IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES TODAY: OPPORTUNITIES AND CHALLENGES.....	155
5.5.1	Picking the winners chances vs. rent seeking risks .....	155
5.5.2	Facing retaliation threats and high trade harmonisation demands .....	157
5.5.3	Promoting technology transfers .....	159
6	STRATEGIC TRADE POLICY IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES: A COMPUTABLE GENERAL EQUILIBRIUM (CGE) SIMULATION FOR VENEZUELA.....	163
6.1	THE BACKGROUND FOR THE STRATEGIC TRADE POLICY CASE: INCONCLUSIVE THEORETICAL SUPPORT AND AMBIGUOUS EMPIRICAL EVIDENCE.....	163
6.2	THE VENEZUELAN ECONOMY AND TRADE REGIME.....	167
6.2.1	Basic facts and data .....	167
6.2.2	Trade policy evolution .....	169
6.3	A COMPUTABLE-GENERAL-EQUILIBRIUM BASED ANALYSIS OF TRADE POLICIES.....	173
6.3.1	Possibilities and limitations of the CGE approach .....	173
6.3.2	Strategic trade policy evaluation through CGE simulations: An example - export promotion policy in Japan (Lee, 1992) .....	177
6.4	A STRATEGIC TRADE POLICY SIMULATION FOR VENEZUELA.....	182
6.4.1	The data and the modelling software .....	182
6.4.2	A model for Venezuela: Simulating targeted export promotion policy .....	187
7	SUMMARY AND PERSPECTIVES.....	199

APPENDIX A-I: FUNCTION DECLARATIONS FOR GTAP IMPLEMENTED IN MPSGE..... 209

APPENDIX A-II: DESCRIPTION OF THE MPSGE FORMULATION ..... 210

APPENDIX A-III: PARAMETERS ..... 213

APPENDIX A-IV: SIMULATIONS CODE..... 216

REFERENCES ..... 233

List of Figures

fig. 2.a: Transformation curves and comparative costs .....	9
fig. 2.b: Pre-trade equilibrium (2 goods x 2 factors case) .....	14
fig. 2.c: Transformation curves and the Heckscher-Ohlin Theorem .....	19
fig. 2.d: Growth of labour supply - The Rybczynski Theorem .....	26
fig. 2.e: Gains from trade for a small open economy .....	28
fig. 2.f: Gains from trade to both trading partners .....	29
fig. 3.a: Increasing returns at firm level and market power .....	45
fig. 3.b: Integrated economy equilibrium .....	49
fig. 3.c: Intra-industry trade as a result of IRTS .....	50
fig. 3.d: Shift in the domestic reaction curve resulting from a targeted export subsidy .....	62
fig. 3.e: Shift in the domestic reaction curve resulting from an import restriction .....	66
fig. 3.f: Optimal policy with Cournot competition .....	69
fig. 3.g: Optimal policy with Bertrand competition .....	70
fig. 4.a: The neoclassical growth model .....	85
fig. 4.b: The dynamics of the neoclassical growth model .....	88
fig. 4.c: Tariffs and GDP growth rates at world prices .....	119
fig. 5.a: Two trade reform approaches: Asia and Latin America .....	154
fig. 6.a: Non-traditional exports in Venezuela .....	172

List of Tables

table 2.a: Neoclassical ranking of policy choices according to their welfare implications.....	35
table 3.a: Comparing autarkic and trading equilibrium under national external IRTS: the possibility of a country losing from trade .....	55
table 3.b: "Prisoner's dilemma" in international trade relationships .....	73
table 5.a: Latin America &amp; East Asia: per capita GNP (in $1991) .....	125
table 5.b: Latin America &amp; East Asia: GNP growth rates (average annual %-growth of p.c. GNP) .....	126
table 5.c: Latin America &amp; East Asia: consumption, investment, and saving (percentage of GDP) .....	127
table 5.d: Latin America &amp; East Asia: growth of export volume 1965-1991 (av. annual %-change).....	129
table 5.e: Selected indicators of the growth process in Chile 1961-1992.....	150
table 6.a: Basic economic data for Venezuela (1993-1999).....	168
table 6.b: Sectoral classification for Lee's 1992 CGE-Simulation on Japan.....	178
table 6.c: Results of Lee's (1992) export promotion policy simulation in Japan (effects of a 20% ad-valorem export subsidy to a targeted sector).....	180
table 6.d: Aggregation of GTAP sectors for Venezuelan CGE-simulation ....	188
table 6.e: Venezuela: effects of a 20% ad valorem export subsidy to large manufactures sector on output and welfare .....	190
table 6.f: Venezuela: relative sectoral composition.....	191
table 6.g: Venezuela: effects of a 20% ad valorem export subsidy to large manufactures sector (IRTS case) on domestic output and on exports.....	192
table 6.h: Venezuela: effects of a 20% ad valorem export subsidy to large manufactures (IRTS case) - comparison with modified benchmark.....	193

---

table 6.i: Venezuela: effects on factor prices of a 20% ad-valorem export subsidy to the large manufactures sector (IRTS case) .....	194
table 6.j: Venezuela: effects on output and welfare of a 20% ad-valorem export subsidy to large scale manufactures and to metal and mineral products .....	196
table 6.k: Venezuela: effects on factor prices of a 20% ad-valorem export subsidy to large manufactures and metal and mineral products ...	196