

CONTENTS

PREFACE vii

INTRODUCTION 1

PART ONE: CRITIQUE 5

ONE

The Limits of the Rational-Actor Model as a
Microfoundation of Economic Efficiency 7

Cooperation 18

Uncertainty 36

Innovation 50

PART TWO: CONCEPTS 67

TWO

Émile Durkheim: The Economy as Moral Order 69

Sociology as the Science of Morality 74

Durkheim's Critique of Economics 76

Economic Institutions as Moral Facts 81

Anomie and Forced Division of Labor 114

Stabilizing Economic Relations with

Professional Groups 119

Cooperation and Morality 122

Appendix: Systematizing the View of the Economy in Sociological Theory: Durkheim through Weber to Parsons 125

THREE

Talcott Parsons: The Economy as a Subsystem of Society 133
Economic and Sociological Theory in Parsons's Early Work 135
The Economy as the Adaptive Subsystem of Society 149
The Boundary Processes of the Economy 156
The Institutional Establishment of Economic Rationality 192
Cooperation and Interpenetration 197

FOUR

Niklas Luhmann: The Economy as a Autopoietic System 201
The Self-Referentiality of the Economy 207

vi CONTENTS

The Reentry of the Excluded Third Party 216
System and Action 233

FIVE

Anthony Giddens: Actor and Structure in Economic Action 241

Interpretation and Structuration of Economic Action 256
Cooperation and Reflexivity 259
Innovation and Creativity 269

PART THREE: CONCLUSIONS 283

SIX

Perspectives for Economic Sociology 285

NOTES 297

BIBLIOGRAPHY 327

INDEX 347