

Contents

Preface	xi
1. An Introduction to McDonaldization	1
McDonald's as a Global Icon	5
The Long Arm of McDonaldization	8
The Dimensions of McDonaldization	12
Efficiency	12
Calculability	13
Predictability	14
Control through Nonhuman Technology	15
The Advantages of McDonaldization	15
A Critique of McDonaldization: The Irrationality of Rationality	16
What Isn't McDonaldized?	19
McDonald's Troubles: Implications for McDonaldization	20
A Look Ahead	22
2. McDonaldization and Its Precursors: From the Iron Cage to the Fast-Food Factory	24
Bureaucratization: Making Life More Rational	24
Weber's Theory of Rationality	25
Irrationality and the "Iron Cage"	27
The Holocaust: Mass-Produced Death	28
Scientific Management: Finding the One Best Way	31
The Assembly Line: Turning Workers into Robots	33
Levittown: Putting Up Houses—"Boom, Boom, Boom"	35
Shopping Centers: Malling America	37
McDonald's: Creating the "Fast-Food Factory"	38
Conclusion	41

3. Efficiency: Drive-Throughs and Finger Foods	43
Streamlining the Process	44
The Fast-Food Industry: Speeding the Way from Secretion to Excretion	46
Home Cooking (and Related Phenomena): “I Don’t Have Time to Cook”	47
Shopping: Creating Ever-More Efficient Selling Machines	50
Higher Education: Just Fill in the Box	52
Health Care: Docs-in-a-Box	54
Entertainment: Moving People (and Trash) Efficiently	55
Other Settings: Streamlining Relationships with Even the Pope	57
Simplifying the Product	59
Putting Customers to Work	61
Conclusion	65
4. Calculability: Big Macs and Little Chips	66
Emphasizing Quantity Rather Than Quality of Products	68
The Fast-Food Industry: Of “Big Bites” and “Super Big Gulps”	68
Higher Education: Grades, Scores, Ratings, and Rankings	70
Health Care: Patients as Dollar Signs	74
Television: Aesthetics Are Always Secondary	75
Sports: Nadia Comaneci Scored Exactly 79.275 Points	76
Politics: There Were No Sound Bites in the Lincoln-Douglas Debate	79
Other Settings: Junk Food Journalism and Tourist Junk(ets)	80
Giving the Illusion of Quantity	81
Reducing Production and Service to Numbers	82
The Fast-Food Industry: A Precooked Hamburger Measures Exactly 3.875 Inches	82
The Workplace: A Penny the Size of a Cartwheel	84
Conclusion	85
5. Predictability: It Never Rains on Those Little Houses on the Hillside	86
Creating Predictable Settings	87
Motel Chains: “Magic Fingers” but No Norman Bates	87

The Fast-Food Industry: Thank God for Those Golden Arches	88
Other Settings: E.T. Can't Find His Home	89
Scripting Interaction with Customers	91
The Fast-Food Industry: "Howdy Pardner" and "Happy Trails"	91
Other Settings: Even the Jokes Are Scripted	93
Making Employee Behavior Predictable	95
The Fast-Food Industry: Even Hamburger University's Professors Behave Predictably	95
Other Settings: That Disney Look	96
Creating Predictable Products and Processes	97
The Fast-Food Industry: Even the Pickles Are Standardized	98
Entertainment: Welcome to McMovieworld	99
Sports: There's Even a McStables	101
Minimizing Danger and Unpleasantness	102
Conclusion	105
6. Control: Human and Nonhuman Robots	106
Controlling Employees	107
The Fast-Food Industry: From Human to Mechanical Robots	107
Education: McChild Care Centers	109
Health Care: Who's Deciding Our Fate?	110
The Workplace: Do as I Say, Not as I Do	112
Controlling Customers	116
The Fast-Food Industry: Get the Hell Out of There	116
Other Settings: It's Like Boot Camp	117
Controlling the Process and the Product	120
Food Production, Cooking, and Vending: It Cooks Itself	120
The Ultimate Examples of Control? Birth and Death	123
Controlling Conception: Even Granny Can Conceive	124
Controlling Pregnancy: Choosing the Ideal Baby	125
Controlling Childbirth: Birth as Pathology	127
Controlling the Process of Dying: Designer Deaths	130
Conclusion	132

7. The Irrationality of Rationality: Traffic Jams on Those "Happy Trails"	134
Inefficiency: Long Lines at the Checkout	135
High Cost: Better Off at Home	136
The Illusion of Fun: Ha, Ha, the Stock Market Just Crashed	137
The Illusion of Reality: Even the "Singers" Aren't Real	140
False Friendliness: "Hi, George"	141
Disenchantment: Where's the Magic?	143
Health and Environmental Hazards: Even Your Pets Are at Risk	144
Homogenization: It's No Different in Paris	147
Dehumanization: Getting Hosed at "Trough and Brew"	148
Fast-Food Industry: Gone Is the "Greasy Spoon"	151
Family: The Kitchen as Filling Station	152
Higher Education: Like Processing Meat	154
Health Care: You're Just a Number	155
Dehumanized Death	156
Conclusion	158
 8. Globalization and McDonaldization: Does It All Amount to . . . Nothing?	 159
Globalization	160
Globalization: Glocalization and Grobalization	162
McDonaldization and Grobalization	165
Nothing-Something and McDonaldization	167
Nothing-Something and Grobalization-Glocalization	169
The Grobalization of Something	171
The Grobalization of Nothing	172
The Glocalization of Nothing	175
The Glocalization of Something	176
The Case for McDonaldization as an Example of the Glocalization of Something	178
The Case for McDonaldization as an Example of the Grobalization of Nothing	181
Conclusion	184
 9. McDonaldization in a Changing World: Are There Any Limits?	 185
The Forces Driving McDonaldization: It Pays, We Value It, It Fits	186
Higher Profits and Lower Costs	186

McDonaldization for Its Own Sake	187
McDonaldization and the Changing Society	188
Other Major Social Changes: McDonaldization in the Era of the "Posts"	189
Postindustrialism and McDonaldization: "Complexification" and Simplification	190
Fordism and Post-Fordism: Or Is It McDonaldism?	191
Postmodernism: Are We Adrift in Hyperspace?	194
Are There Any Limits to the Expansion of McDonaldization?	202
A "Yellow Brick Road" to the Summit of Everest?	202
Looking to the Future: De-McDonaldization?	205
The Future of McDonald's and Franchises: A Model of All That Is Bad?	205
The Future of McDonaldization: "Miss Hap's" and "Miss Steak's"	207
Conclusion	212
10. Dealing with McDonaldization: A Practical Guide	213
Creating "Reasonable" Alternatives: Sometimes You Really Do Have to Break the Rules	215
Marvelous Market: "Crunchy Crusts and Full Taste"	216
Ben & Jerry's: "Caring Capitalism"	219
B&Bs: Alternatives to "McBed, McBreakfasts"	222
Swedish Auto Assembly Lines: Eliminating the Worst Excesses	223
Fighting Back Collectively: Saving Hearts, Minds, Taste Buds, and the Piazza di Spagna	225
McLibel Support Group: McDonald's Pyrrhic Victory	225
National Heart Savers Association: McClog the Artery	227
Slow Food: Creating a Place for Traditional, Regional, High-Quality Food	228
Sprawl-Busters: A "Hit List" of McDonaldized Superstores	231
Local Protests: Not Wanting to Say "Bye-Bye to the Neighborhood"	231
Coping Individually: "Skunk Works," Blindfolded Children, and Fantasy Worlds	234

Nonrationalized Niches: Life in the Skunk Works	235
A Range of Individual Actions: If All Else Fails, Save the Children	238
Freedom: If You Can't Cope, Can You Escape?	241
Conclusion	243
Bibliography	245
Notes	251
Index	293
About the Author	309