

Contents

Preface	xi
Plan of the book	xii
PART I THE FUNDAMENTALS OF REWARD MANAGEMENT
1 An overview of reward management	3
Reward management defined 3; The aims of reward management 3; The philosophy of reward management 6; Reward management components 6; Development of the concept of reward management 9; References 11
2 Total reward	13
Total reward defined 13; The significance of total reward 15; Model of total reward 15; Relational rewards 16; Developing a total reward approach 22; Development steps 22; Total reward at British Airways 23; Conclusion 24; References 24
3 Strategic reward	25
Reward strategy defined 25; Integrated reward strategy 26; Why have a reward strategy? 26; The reality of reward strategy 27; Reward strategy issues 28; The structure of reward strategy 28; The content of reward strategy 30; Reward philosophy 31; Guiding principles 32;

Developing reward strategy 33; Effective reward strategies 34;
Reward strategy and line management capability 35; Examples of integrated reward strategies 36; References 39

4 Reward policies 41

The purpose of reward policies 41; Reward policy headings 41;
Developing reward policies 45

5 The context of reward management 47

The internal environment 47; The external environment 49;
The industrial relations scene 50; The national government scene 51;
The local government scene 52; The voluntary and not-for-profit sectors 53; References 53

PART II THE CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

6 Factors affecting levels of pay 57

Economic determinants of pay 57; Factors affecting pay levels within organizations 62; Summary: factors affecting pay levels 64;
The significance of the factors affecting pay levels 64; Application of the factors 67; References 67

7 Motivation and reward 69

The process of motivation 69; Motivation theories 72; Motivation and financial incentives and rewards 76; Factors affecting satisfaction with pay 78; Job satisfaction, motivation and performance 79; The key messages of motivation theory 80; Summary of motivation theory and its practical applications 82; References 83

8 The psychological contract 85

The psychological contract defined 85; The significance of the psychological contract 86; Developing and maintaining a positive psychological contract 87; References 88

PART III ESTABLISHING JOB VALUES AND RELATIVITIES

9 Job evaluation schemes 91

Job evaluation defined 92; Analytical job evaluation 92;
Non-analytical job evaluation 95; The incidence of job evaluation 98;
Computer-assisted job evaluation 98; Criteria for choice 99;
The case for and against job evaluation 100; What is happening to job evaluation? 104; Conclusions 105; References 105

10	Developing and operating a point-factor job evaluation scheme	107
	Design and process criteria 107; Point-factor job evaluation scheme methodology 109; The design and implementation programme 111; The scheme design programme 112; The application and implementation programme 122; References 129
11	Equal pay for work of equal value	131
	Why discrimination takes place 131; The legal framework 134; The EOC code of practice on equal pay 138; Equal pay claims 138; Avoiding discrimination in job evaluation 141; Discriminatory pay structures 142; References 143
12	Equal pay reviews	145
	Purpose of equal pay reviews 145; Planning a review 146; The equal pay review process 147; Analysing pay 151; Conclusion 155; References 156
13	Market rate analysis	157
	The purpose of market rate analysis 157; The concept of a market rate 158; The process of market analysis 159; Using market data 172
14	Role analysis	173
	Job descriptions and role profiles 173; Role analysis and reward management 174; Role analysis techniques 175; Role profiles 177
PART IV GRADE AND PAY STRUCTURES
15	Grade and pay structures: main types	181
	Grade structures 182; Pay structures 182; Narrow-graded structures 183; Broad-graded structures 185; Broad-banded structures 186; Job level structures: the COLT experience 192; Career family structures 192; Job family structures 195; Pay spines 197; Spot rates 198; Individual job grades 198; References 199
16	Grade and pay structures: design and implementation	201
	Guiding principles for grade and pay structures 201; Approach to design 202; Graded pay structure design 208; Broad-banded structure design 213; Career family structure design 216; Job family structure design 220; Grade structure design based upon job classification 221; Designing non-discriminatory job structures 221; Implementing new grade and pay structures 222; References 227

PART V REWARDING AND REVIEWING CONTRIBUTION AND PERFORMANCE

- 17 Individual contingent pay 231
Individual contingent pay defined 232; The incidence of contingent pay 232; Contingent pay as a motivator 233; Arguments for and against contingent pay 233; Alternatives to contingent pay 235; Criteria for success 236; Performance-related pay 237; Competence-related pay 239; Contribution-related pay 240; Skill-based pay 247; Service-related pay 250; Choice of approach 251; Readiness for contribution pay 251; Developing and implementing contribution pay 253; References 254
- 18 Team pay 255
Team pay defined 255; Aim of team pay 257; How team pay works 257; Requirements for team pay 259; Advantages and disadvantages of team pay 260; Developing team pay 260; References 261
- 19 Paying for organizational performance 263
Types of schemes 263; Aims 264; Profit-sharing 265; Share ownership schemes 266; Gain-sharing 267; References 267
- 20 Recognition processes 269
Recognition processes defined 269; Principles of recognition 270; Types of recognition 270; Examples of non-cash awards 271; Concierge services 272; Designing a recognition scheme 273; Example of a recognition scheme at Xansa 273; References 274
- 21 Performance management and reward 275
Performance management defined 275; Aims of performance management 276; Principles of performance management 276; The performance management sequence 278; The performance management cycle 278; Key features of performance management 280; Performance management as a motivating process 280; Performance management and non-financial motivation 281; Performance management and pay 282; Evaluation 288; Performance management issues 290; References 290
- ## PART VI REWARD MANAGEMENT FOR SPECIAL GROUPS
- 22 Rewarding directors and senior executives 293
Corporate governance 294; Remuneration committees 295; Directors' and senior executives' remuneration 296; Benefits 299; Service contracts 299; Reference 299

30 Reward case studies

371

Significant points 371; AEGON 373; Audit Commission 376; B&Q 377;
British Airways 380; Diageo 380; GlaxoSmithKline (GSK) 385; Lloyds
TSB 388; Nationwide 399; Norwich Union Insurance 401;
PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC) 408; Tesco 411

Appendix 1	Reward bibliography	419
Appendix 2	Reward management guiding principles	429
Appendix 3	Examples of role and level profiles	433
Appendix 4	Example of reward attitude survey	443
Appendix 5	Guidelines for employee reward students	445
Index		459

23 Expatriate remuneration	301
Expatriate remuneration policies 301; Expatriate pay 302; Allowances 303; Benefits 304
24 Rewarding sales and customer service staff	305
Salary only 306; Basic salary plus commission 306; Basic salary plus bonus 307; Commission only 307; Additional non-cash rewards 307; Summary of methods 308
25 Shop floor pay	311
Factors affecting shop floor pay 311; Time rates 312; Payment-by-result schemes 313; Single status and harmonization 318; References 321
PART VII EMPLOYEE BENEFITS AND PENSION SCHEMES
26 Employee benefits	325
Rationale for employee benefits 326; Employee benefit strategies and policies 326; Types of benefit 326; Choice of benefits 329; Administering employee benefits 329; Tax considerations 329; Reference 332
27 Flexible benefits	333
Reasons for introducing flexible benefits 333; Types of flexible benefits schemes 334; Introducing flexible benefits 336; References 338
28 Pension schemes	339
Why pensions are provided 339; What pension schemes provide 340; The two main types of scheme 340; Other types of pension scheme 344; The State pension scheme 346; Advising employees on pensions 347; Developing and communicating pensions policies 347; References 348
PART VIII REWARD MANAGEMENT PROCEDURES AND CASE STUDIES
29 Managing reward	351
Reward management roles 352; Reward procedures 353; Controlling reward 354; Conducting pay reviews 357; General reviews 357; Individual reviews 358; Communicating to employees 363; Managing the development of reward systems 364; The use of computers in reward management 367; References 370	