

Contents

| | |
|---|------|
| Illustrations | viii |
| Acknowledgments | ix |
| Introduction | 1 |
| 1: History, Utopia, and the Social Construction of Happiness: The Historical Musical | 17 |
| 2: Mapping German Identity: The Foreign Adventure Film | 65 |
| 3: The Celluloid War: The Home-Front Film | 118 |
| 4: Discontented Domesticity: The Melodrama | 160 |
| 5: The Forbidden Desires of Everyday Life: The Problem Film | 206 |
| Epilogue | 259 |
| Works Cited | 265 |
| Index | 287 |

Illustrations

All photographs are reproduced courtesy of the Bundesarchiv-Filmarchiv Berlin.

| | |
|--|-----|
| Politics as pathos: Tanz auf dem Vulkan (1938) | 18 |
| Stealing from the Jews: Robert und Bertram (1939) | 33 |
| Henry Wickham and José: Kautschuk (1938) | 67 |
| Barbara and Thomas in the desert: Verklungene Melodie (1938) | 78 |
| Program for Frauen für Golden Hill (1940) | 90 |
| “Film as a psychological weapon in war”: Der deutsche Film (1941) | 118 |
| The bachelor trio in the Request Concert: Wunschkonzert (1940) | 121 |
| Performing for soldiers on the Western Front: Die große Liebe (1942) | 134 |
| Upholding cultural traditions: Die Degenhardts (1944) | 145 |
| The erotic woman: Damals (1943) | 160 |
| Female desire as sickness: Opfergang (1944) | 175 |
| Women as caregivers: Damals (1943) | 185 |
| “Dream or Reality? The Public and Film Community Answer”: Der deutsche Film (1939) | 206 |
| Contentment in Nature: Das Leben kann so schön sein (1938) | 213 |
| The enchanted day: Der verzauberte Tag (1943/44) | 221 |
| Anni and Christine at work in the newsstand: Der verzauberte Tag | 224 |
| Krummholz attacks Christine: Der verzauberte Tag | 230 |
| The monstrous patriarch Lauretz: Via Mala (1945) | 234 |