Contents

Preface vii
Acknowledgements ix
List of Illustrations x
List of Tables and Figure xiv
List of Musical Examples xv
Notes on the Contributors xvii

Introduction: From ‘Renaissance’ to ‘Baroque’?
Jonathan P. Wainwright 1

1 Baptiste’s Hautbois: The Metamorphosis from Shawm to Hautboy in France, 1620–1670
Bruce Haynes 23

2 A Commentary on the Letter by Michel de La Barre Concerning the History of Musettes and Hautboys
Marc Ecochard 47

3 The Woodwind Instruments of Richard Haka (1645/6–1705)
Jan Bouterse 63

4 Basstals or Curtoons: The Search for a Transitional Fagott
Graham Lyndon-Jones 73

5 The Iconographic Background to the Seventeenth-Century Recorder
Anthony Rowland-Jones 87

6 The Renaissance Flute in the Seventeenth Century
Nancy Hadden 113

7 The Flute at Dresden: Ramifications for Eighteenth-Century Woodwind Performance in Germany
Mary Oleskiewicz 145

8 How did Seventeenth-Century English Violins Really Sound?
Peter Trevelyan 167
9  The Development of French Lute Style 1600–1650
   Matthew Spring
   173

10 The Early Air de Cour, the Theorbo, and the Continuo Principle in France
   Jonathan Le Cocq
   191

11 From Stops Organical to Stops of Variety: The English Organ from 1630 to 1730
   Dominic Gwynn
   211

12 Upgrading from Consorts to Orchestra at the Wurttemberg Court
   Samantha Owens
   227

13 From Violin Band to Orchestra
   Peter Holman
   241

14 Organological Gruyère
   Jeremy Montagu
   259

Workshop Reports

1  J.S. Bach’s Actus tragicus: ‘Gottes Zeit ist die allerbeste Zeit’ (BWV 106)
   Andrew Parrott
   269

2  The French Baroque Orchestra: Lully, Charpentier, Couperin
   Graham Sadler
   271

Bibliography
   275

Index
   305