Table of Contents

Editors' Preface .......................................................................................................................... 9

Part I: National Traditions and the Emergence of Transnational Forms of Knowledge

Introduction to Part I
Peter Wagner .............................................................................................................................. 17

Varieties of Interpretations of Modernity: On National Traditions in Sociology and the Other Social Sciences
Peter Wagner .......................................................................................................................... 27

National Differences in Academic Culture: Science in Germany and the United States between the World Wars
Jonathan Harwood .................................................................................................................. 53

Vicissitudes in Internationalisation: International Networks in Mathematics up until the 1920s
Jean Dhombres .......................................................................................................................... 81

French and German Historians’ Networks: The Case of the Early Annales
Peter Schöttler .......................................................................................................................... 115

The Pasteur Institute’s International Network: Scientific Innovations and French Tropisms
Anne Marie Moulin .................................................................................................................. 135
Part II: Intellectual Transfer and Cultural Resistance

Introduction to Part II
Christophe Charle ........................................................................................................... 197

Philological Networks: A History of Disciplines and Academic Reform in Nineteenth-Century France
Michael Werner .................................................................................................................... 205

The Inertia of Early German-American Comparisons: American Schooling in the German Educational Discourse, 1860–1930
Peter Drewek ....................................................................................................................... 225

Yongling Lu & Ruth Hayhoe .................................................................................................. 269

East Is East and West Is West? Chinese Academia Goes Global
Barbara Schulte ..................................................................................................................... 307

Part III: Network Formation and Mobility Patterns in an Emerging World Society

Introduction to Part III
Jürgen Schriewer .................................................................................................................. 333

From the Peregrinatio Academica to Contemporary International Student Flows: National Culture and Functional Differentiation as Emergent Causes
Rudolf Stichweh ..................................................................................................................... 345
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Author</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Student Mobility and Western Universities: Patterns of Unequal Exchange in the European Academic Market, 1880–1939</td>
<td>Victor Karady</td>
<td>361</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Intellectual Networks of Two Leading Universities: Paris and Berlin 1890–1930</td>
<td>Christophe Charle</td>
<td>401</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Multiple Internationalities: The Emergence of a World-Level Ideology and the Persistence of Idiosyncratic World-Views</td>
<td>Jürgen Schriewer</td>
<td>473</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name Index</td>
<td></td>
<td>535</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bio-Bibliographical Notes about the Authors</td>
<td></td>
<td>551</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>