THE POSTWAR UNIVERSITY
Utopianist Campus and College

Stefan Muthesius

Published for the
Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art by
Yale University Press
New Haven and London
CONTENTS

Acknowledgements vi
INTRODUCTION 1
Institution, socio—educational ethos, community, utopianism 2

I USA: CAMPUS VS. COLLEGE 11
The post World War II multiversity 11
Liberal college to student personnel service 15
Campus planning 24
Assigning architecture's role 28
International Modernist collegiate 31
Campus: Modern and big. Albany 40
A new comprehensiveness in California 45
An integral approach? 53

II ENGLISH NEW UNIVERSITY DESIGN 59
COLLEGE AND CAMPUS 59
Campus: Civics, Redbricks and Overseas 59
The new Cambridge contribution 64
College, hall of residence, study bedroom block 73
College into campus. Institutional to spontaneous 84
Town planning and public housing paradigms 89
THE 1960S NEW UNIVERSITIES 94
The University Grants Committee and the local founders 94
The Balliol/‘liberal’ ethos. Keele. The ‘schools’ setup 99
Welfare State ‘social form’. The architects devise cost-cutting briefs 103
Monumentalism on a parkland campus: Sussex 107
Last International Modern: Warwick 115
Fortress college: Kent 122
The fusion of colleges and university: York 128
Integrated ‘urban’: East Anglia, Essex, Lancaster, Bath and others 138
1968: INSTITUTIONAL AND ARCHITECTURAL DISILLUSIONMENT 174

III THE NEW ‘URBAN’ CAMPUS IN NORTH AMERICA 187
Canada: The ‘Single Structure Campus’: Scarborough, Simon Fraser 187
USA: Chicago Circle. The ‘urban’ challenge to campus and college 194

IV WEST GERMANY: CAMPUS AND COLLEGE AS ‘REFORM’ 203
The post World War II reinstatement of tradition 203
The new concern for students: Wohnheime and the Kollegienhaus—project 206
Universitätsreform: academic and/or institutional? 216
Campus design at Bochum, Regensburg, Konstanz and Bielefeld 220

V CAMPUS PLANNING WORLDWIDE 247
France before and after 1968 258
Megastructural and other indeterminisms 268

VI UTOPIAN RHETORIC AND ITS RECIPIENTS 281
Abbreviations 292
Notes 293
Index 333