Contents

Contributors vii
Preface ix

SECTION 1 Conceptions in Structured Measurement of Personality and Situations

1 The Grammar of Science and the Evolution of Personality Theory
   Raymond B. Cattell 3

2 Personality Studied by the Method of Rating in the Life Situation
   S. B. Hammond 43

3 Trait Description and Measurement by Personality Questionnaires
   G. J. S. Wilde 69

4 Trait Description and Measurement through Discovered Structure in Objective Tests (T Data)
   Akira Ishikawa 104

5 Trait Description and Measurement in Motivation and Dynamic Structure
   T. E. Dielman and S. E. Krug 117

6 Personality and Ability Theory
   John L. Horn 139

7 A More Sophisticated Look at Structure: Perturbation, Sampling, Role, and Observer Trait-View Theories
   Raymond B. Cattell 166

8 Multivariate Perspectives on the Construct Validity of the Trait-State Distinction
   John R. Nesselroade and Thomas W. Bartsch 221

9 Theory and Measurement of Anxiety States
   Charles D. Spielberger, Robert E. Lushene, and W. George McAdoo 239

10 Formulating Situational Environment in Relation to States and Traits
    Gerald R. Patterson and Gordon C. Bechtel 254

11 Typological Theory and Research
    Charles R. Bolz 269

SECTION 2 The Genetic Bases of Personality

12 Psychological Genetics, from the Study of Animal Behavior
   P. L. Broadhurst and J. L. Jinks 295

13 Psychological Genetics, from the Study of Human Behavior
   John C. Loehlin 329

14 The Genetics and Development of Sex Differences
   Jeffrey A. Gray and Robert F. Drewett 348

SECTION 3 Personality Change and Development

15 Learning Theory, Personality, and the S-R Paradigm
   Fredric Weizmann 377

16 Social Behaviorism: Unified Theory in Learning and Personality
   Arthur W. Staats 389
CONTENTS

17 Developmental Structural Changes in the Child's Personality
   Ralph Mason Dreger  406

18 Structured Learning Theory, Applied to Personality Change
   Raymond B. Cattell  433

SECTION 4  The Sociological Domain of Personality

Personality and Culture: General Concepts and Methodological Problems  473
19 Personality and Culture: The Family  Theo Herrmann and
   Aiga Stapf  477
20 The Emotions and Emotion Concepts in Personality and Culture
   Research  Carroll E. Izard  496
21 Personality and Small Group Behavior  Graham M. Vaughan  511
22 The Process of Personality Interaction  Gerald L. Clore, Jr., and
   Donn Byrne  530

SECTION 5  Special Expressions of Personality

23 Personality and Perception  Klaus R. Schneewind  551
24 Trait Theory and Verbal Learning Processes  K. Warner Schaeie and
   Larry R. Goulet  567
25 Physiological Concepts in Personality Research
   Jochen Fahrenberg  585

SECTION 6  The Psychopathology of Personality

26 Classification in Psychopathology  Wilson H. Guertin  615
27 The Abnormal Personality: Neurosis and Delinquency
   Karl H. Delhees  629
28 Multivariate Research on the Psychoses  Lawrence F.
   Van Egeren  653

SECTION 7  Integrations of Personality Concepts

29 Personality and Socio-Ethical Values: The Structure of Self and
   Superego  Richard L. Gorsuch and Raymond B. Cattell  675
30 The Effective Utilization of Personality Constructs in Applied
   Situations  David C. Thompson  709
31 The Formal Properties of Cattellian Personality Theory and Its Relationship to Other Personality Theories  K. B. Madsen  721

Bibliography  744
Index  791