Contents

List of illustrations vii
List of contributors viii

Towards an anthropology of children and place
KAREN FOG OLWIG AND EVA GULLØV 1

PART I
Place as a site of opportunity and control 21

1 Creating a natural place for children: an ethnographic study of Danish kindergartens 23
   EVA GULLØV

2 Restricted experiences in a conflict society: the local lives of Belfast children 39
   LAURA GILLIAM

3 The Smith children go out to school – and come home again: place-making among Kuku-Yalanji children in Southeast Cape York, Australia 58
   FRANCINE LORIMER

4 How will the children come home? Emplacement and the creation of the social body in an Ethiopian returnee settlement 77
   LAURA HAMMOND

PART II
Place as a site in the field of generational relations 97

5 Growing up between places of work and non-places of childhood: the uneasy relationship 99
   OLGA NIEUWENHUYS
6 Common neighbourhoods – diversified lives: growing up in urban Norway
   Hilde Lidén 119

7 Associationless children: inner-city sports and local society in Denmark
   Sally Anderson 138

8 Changing place, changing position: orphans’ movements in a community with high HIV/AIDS prevalence in western Kenya
   Erick Otieno Nyambéda and Jens Aagaard-Hansen 162

PART III
Place as a source of belonging: local communities, national identities, global relations 177

9 Sweet and bitter places: the politics of schoolchildren’s orientation in rural Uganda
   Lotte Meinert 179

10 ‘Imagined communities’: the local community as a place for ‘children’s culture’ and social participation in Norway
   Anne Trine Kjørholt 197

11 Children’s places of belonging in immigrant families of Caribbean background
   Karen Fog Olwig 217

   Epilogue: children’s places
   Vered Amit 236

Index 247