Contents

List of Maps, Tables, and Figures  xiii
List of Photos  xv
Abbreviations  xvi
Glossary  xviii
Conventions, Terminology, and Transliteration  xxxi
Acknowledgements  xxxii

1. Introduction  1
   1. The Subject  1
   2. The Sources  5
   3. Overview  7

   I. EMPIRE

   2. British India’s Informal Empire and Spheres of Influence in Asia and Africa  11
      1. British India’s residency system in Asia and Africa  12
      2. The origins of the residency system, 1613–1763  12
      3. The politicization and expansion of the residency system, 1764–1947  14
      4. The residency system and Britain’s Indian Empire  20
      5. Imperialism and the strategy of informal empire  29
      6. The Indian Political Service (IPS), 1764–1947  38
      7. Early British involvement in the Gulf, 1616–1822  43
      8. Britain’s Political Residency in the Gulf, 1822–1971  44
      9. Britain’s Native Agency in Bahrain, c.1816–1900  54
      10. Conclusion  57

   II. AGENTS OF EMPIRE

   3. British India’s Native Agency System in Asia  61
      1. British India’s native agency system in Asia  62
2. British India’s native agency system in the Gulf 64
3. British motives for employing native agents 66
4. Robinson’s theory of collaboration 71
5. The Indian origins of the native agency system 74
6. The politicization of the native agency system in India and the Gulf 80
7. Early native agents in the Gulf 83
8. The establishment of the native agency system in the Gulf 91
9. Advantages for the British 93
10. Disadvantages for the British 97
11. Advantages and disadvantages for the native agents 100
12. Conclusion 103

4. The Operation of British India’s Native Agency in Bahrain 104
1. The Agency building 104
2. The Agency’s finances and organization 106
3. The Agent’s intelligence-gathering duties, c.1816–1900 108
4. The Agent’s judicial duties, 1861–1900 119
5. The Agent’s political duties, 1872–1900 127
6. The Agent’s social duties 132
7. Conclusion 134

5. British India’s Native Agents in Bahrain 136
1. The Banias, c.1816–34 137
2. The Safar family agents 143
4. Hajji Jasim (Hajji Abu’l Qasim), 1842–62 153
5. Hajji Ibrahim bin Muhsin bin Rajab, 1862–4 155
6. Years of abeyance, 1865–71 157
8. Hajji Ahmad Khan Safar, 1884–91 164
9. Temporary agents, 1891–3 166
10. Agha Muhammad Rahim Safar, 1893–1900 166
11. Hajji ‘Abbas bin Muhammad bin Fadhil, 1900 169
12. The Native Agency staff after 1900 172
13. Challenges to the agents, 1834–97 174
14. Conclusion 187
6. The Decline of British India’s Native Agency System in Bahrain and the Gulf 189
   1. The rift in agent—ruler relations, 1895–1900 189
   2. The Agent’s Conflict of interest between trade and politics, 1897–9 192
   3. The argument for a political agency, 1897–9 200
   4. The transition to a political agency, 1899–1900 210
   5. Conclusion 213

7. Conclusion: The Arabian Frontier of the Indian Empire 216

Appendix A British India’s Residency System in Asia and Africa 225
   1. British India’s residency system, 1880s 225
   2. Persia Agency, 1616–1763 228
   4. Bushire Residency, 1778–1822 230
   5. Lower Gulf Agency, 1820–2 231
   8. Gulf Residency, 1946–71 236
   10. Gulf Residency staff, 1834 238
   11. Gulf Residency staff (Persian Coast and Islands only), 1869 241
   12. Gulf Residency staff budget (Bushire HQ), 1899 248
   13. Muscat Agency staff budget, 1901 251
   14. Gulf Residency complete budget, 1899 253
   15. Graded officers serving in political residencies, 1877 256
   16. British military establishments in the Gulf 257

Appendix B Rulers and Residents 260
   1. Rulers of Bahrain 260
   2. Residents in Bushire 261
   3. Agents for the Lower Gulf (Qishm Island) 262
   4. Political Residents in the Gulf (Bushire) 263
   5. Political Residents in the Gulf (Ras al-Jufair, Bahrain) 267
   6. Governors of Bombay 268
   7. Viceroyos of India 269
Appendix C  British India’s Native Agents in Bahrain  271
  1. Native Agents  272
  2. Native Agency staff  274
  3. British Indian Steam Navigation Co. Agents (Gray Paul & Co.)  276
  4. Gulf Merchant grades  277

Appendix D  British Control: Bahrain v. the Indian States  280

Appendix E  Anglo-Bahraini Legal Obligations and Rights  281

Bibliography  289
Index  339