The Doctrine of the Sufis

(Kitab al-Ta’arruf li-madhhab ahl al-tasawwuf)

Translated from the Arabic of Abu Bakr al-Kalabadhi

By

Arthur John Arberry, M.A.

KITAB BHAVAN
New Delhi 110002
CONTENTS

Introduction
Prooemium
Chapter
   I. How the Sufis account for their being called Sufis
   II. A list of the famous men among the Sufis
   III. A list of the Sufis who published the sciences of allusion in books and treatises
   IV. A list of the Sufis who have written on conduct
   V. Their doctrine of unity
   VI. Their doctrine of the attributes
   VII. Their variance as to whether God has ceased creating
   VIII. Their variance concerning names
   IX. Their doctrine of the Qur'an
   X. Their variance concerning the nature of speech
   xi. Their doctrine of vision
   XII. Their variance as to the Prophet's vision
   XIII. Their doctrine of predestination and the creation of acts
   XIV. Their doctrine of capacity
   XV. Their doctrine of compulsion
   XVI. Their doctrine of advantageousness
   XVII. Their doctrine of promise and threat
   XVIII. Their doctrine of intercession
XIX. Their doctrine of children
XX. Their doctrine of the duties imposed by God on agents
XXI. Their doctrine of the gnosis of God
XXII. Their variance as to the nature of gnosis
XXIII. Their doctrine of spirit
XXIV. Their doctrine angels and messengers
XXV. Their doctrine of the faults ascribed to the prophets
XXVI. Their doctrine of the miracles of saints
XXVII. Their doctrine of faith
XXVIII. Their doctrine of the realities of faith
XXIX. Their doctrine of the legal schools
XXX. Their doctrine of earning
XXXI. Of the sufi sciences of the states
XXXII. Of the nature and meaning of Sufism
XXXIII. Of the revelation of the thoughts
XXXIV. Of Sufism and being at ease with God
XXXV. Their doctrine of repentance
XXXVI. Their doctrine of abstinence
XXXVII. Their doctrine of patience
XXXVIII. Their doctrine of poverty
XXXIX. Their doctrine of humility
XL. Their doctrine of fear
XLI. Their doctrine of piety
XLII. Their doctrine of sincerity
XLIII. Their Doctrine of gratitude
XLIV. Their doctrine of trust
XLV. Their doctrine of satisfaction 90
XLVI. Their doctrine of certainty 92
XLVII. Their doctrine of recollection 92
XLVIII. Their doctrine of intimacy 96
XLIX. Their doctrine of nearness 97
L. Their doctrine of union 99
LI. Their doctrine of love 99
LII. Their doctrine of detachment and separation 102
LIII. Their doctrine of ecstasy 103
LIV. Their doctrine of overmastery 105
LV. Their doctrine of intoxication 108
LVI. Their doctrine of absence and presence 110
LVII. Their doctrine of concentration and separation 112
LVIII. Their doctrine of revelation 115
LIX. Their doctrine of passing-away and persistence 118
LX. Their doctrine of the realities of gnosis 130
LXI. Their doctrine of unification 133
LXII. Their doctrine of the description of the gnostic 135
LXIII. Their doctrine of the seeker and the sought 139
LXIV. Their doctrine of toiling and divine practice 141
LXV. Their doctrine of discoursing to men 145
LXVI. Of their piety and pious endeavours 148
LXVII. Of God's favours to the Sufis and his warning them by means of supernatural voices 151
LXVIII. Of God's warning them by gifts of insight 153
LXIX. Of God's warning them by means of thoughts 154
LXX. Of God's warning them through visions and rare favours 155
Contents

LXXI. God's favours to them which spring of His jealousy 157
LXXII. God's bounties in laying hardships upon them to bear 159
LXXIII. God's grace to them at death and after 160
LXXIV. Of other graces accorded them 162
LXXV. Of audition 163

Index

1. Names of persons and places
2. Technical terms