Mahua Sarkar

VISIBLE HISTORIES,
DISAPPEARING WOMEN
Producing Muslim Womanhood
in Late Colonial Bengal
Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: Writing Difference 1

1 The Colonial Cast: The Merchant, the Soldier, the “Writer” (Clerk), Their Lovers, and the Trouble with “Native Women’s” Histories 27

2 The Politics of (In)visibility: Muslim Women in (Hindu) Nationalist Discourse 48

3 Negotiating Modernity: The Social Production of Muslim-ness in Late Colonial Bengal 78

4 Difference in Memory 133

Conclusion: Connections 196

Notes 205

Bibliography 287

Index 331