BRINGING IN THE PEOPLE

A Comparison of Constitutional Forms and Practices of the Referendum

by

MARKKU SUKSI

Department of Law,
Åbo Akademi University,
Turku, Åbo, Finland

MARTINUS NIJHOFF PUBLISHERS
DORDRECHT / BOSTON / LONDON
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface vii

I. INTRODUCTION 1
   1.1. General remarks 1
   1.2. The concept of the referendum 5
   1.3. Referendum, plebiscite, and policy vote 9

II. THE REFERENDUM IN THE CONTEXT OF NATIONAL DECISION-MAKING - a theoretical exploration 15
   2.1. General considerations 15
   2.2. The three main forms of sovereignty 16
   2.3. A main framework for popular participation in national decision-making 24
   2.4. The systematization of the institution of the referendum 28
   2.5. Explication 30
   2.6. Some comments 37

III. HISTORICAL DEVELOPMENTS 40
   3.1. General considerations 40
   3.2. The French revolution: a milestone? 41
   3.3. The development of Swiss referendum democracy 47
   3.4. The United States 56
      3.4.1. Introduction 56
      3.4.2. The referendum at the federal level 59
      3.4.3. The referendum at the state level 69
         3.4.3.1. General remarks 69
         3.4.3.2. Emerging tradition: the constitutional referendum and local option votes 69
         3.4.3.3. The referendum and representative government: populism, Guaranty Clause, and judicial review 75
         3.4.3.4. Some characteristics of the referendum 85
         3.4.3.5. The advisory referendum 89