CONTROLLING STATE CRIME

An Introduction

Edited by
Jeffrey Ian Ross

Foreword by
Austin T. Turk

GARLAND PUBLISHING, INC.
NEW YORK & LONDON / 1995
Contents

Series Editors' Preface vii
Foreword ix
   Austin T. Turk
Acknowledgments xi
Controlling State Crime: Toward an Integrated Structural Model 3
   Jeffrey Ian Ross
A State Action May Be Nasty But Is Not Likely to Be a Crime 35
   Ira Sharkansky
State Crime or Governmental Crime: Making Sense of the Conceptual Confusion 53
   David O. Friedrichs
Controlling State Crimes by National Security Agencies 81
   Pete Gill
Controlling Crimes by the Military 115
   Jeffrey Ian Ross
State Crime by the Police and Its Control 141
   Ken Menzies
Control and Prevention of Crimes Committed by State-Supported Educational Institutions 163
   Natasha J. Cabrera
Crimes of the Capitalist State Against Labor 207
   Kenneth D. Tunnell
Preventing State Crimes Against the Environment During Military Operations: The 1977 Environmental Modification Treaty 235
   Raymond A. Zilinskas
Contents

International State-Sponsored Organizations to Control State Crime: The European Convention on Human Rights
  Leon Hurwitz
  283

A New Role for the International Court of Justice: Adjudicator of International and State Transnational Crimes
  Barbara M. Yarnold
  317

Can States Commit Crimes? The Limits of Formal International Law
  Luis F. Molina
  349

Eliminating State Crime by Abolishing the State
  Brian Martin
  389

The Future of Controlling State Crime: Where Do We Go from Here?
  Jeffrey Ian Ross
  419

Contributors
  427