BETWEEN FREEDOM AND SUBSISTENCE

China and Human Rights

ANN KENT
Contents

Preface ix
Introduction 1

1 China and the International Law of Human Rights 5
Problems of Definition and Priority 6
Problems of Jurisdiction and Enforcement 19

2 Human Rights from Imperial to Communist China 30

3 Human Rights in China, 1949–1979 51
Civil and Political Rights: Formal and Informal 53
Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights: Formal and Substantive 67

4 Civil and Political Rights in China, 1979–1989 79
Formal Civil and Political Rights 85
Informal Civil and Political Rights 96
China's Changing International and Domestic Position on Human Rights 100

5 Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights, 1979–1989 111
Formal Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights 114
Substantive Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights 117

6 The Critique of China's Human Rights Before June 1989 134
The Chinese Critique 136
The External Critique 153

Origins 168
The Events of April–June 1989 and their Aftermath 177
Domestic and International Repercussions 186

8 Human Rights in Post-Tiananmen China 193
Internal Developments 193
International Pressures and the Chinese Government Response 213

Conclusion 231

Chapter Notes 239
Select Bibliography 279
Index 284