Administrative Law Facing the Future:
Old Constraints and New Horizons

Edited by
Peter Leyland and Terry Woods
Contents

List of Contributors ix

Foreword by Sir Stephen Sedley xi

Introduction xv

1 Administrative Law’s Reaction to the Changing Concepts of Public Service — Rodney Austin 1

Summary — Introduction — The historical perspective: subjects not citizens: the top-down tradition — The revolution of the right: the creation of the citizen/consumer, the privatisation of the state and the imposition of the market on the provision of public services — The contracting state and the new public management: the implications for public law — Conclusion

2 Mitigating the Democratic Deficit? Judicial Review and Ministerial Accountability — Mike Radford 35

Summary — Introduction — Political accountability — Access to information — The nature of judicial review — The reach of judicial review — The contribution of judicial review to government accountability — Conclusion

3 Delegated Legislation: A Necessary Evil or a Constitutional Outrage? — Gabriele Ganz 60

4 The Ombudsman: Parochial Stopgap or Global Panacea? — Gavin Drewry

5 A Woolf in Sheep’s Clothing? Shifts Towards Informal Resolution of Complaints in the Health Service — Linda Mulcahy and Judith Allsop

Summary — Introduction — Neglect of the lower strata of the civil justice system — Alternative models of grievance handling — The current context: general shifts towards informalism — The shift towards informalism in NHS complaint systems — Criticisms of the procedure — Reforming the complaints system — A Woolf in sheep’s clothing? — Conclusion

6 The Public Law–Private Law Distinction: A Comparative and Philosophical Approach — Nicholas Bamforth

Summary — Introduction — The descriptive claim — The normative claim — Two criticisms — Conclusion

7 Obsolescence and Renewal: Judicial Review in the Private Sector — John Alder

Summary — Introduction — The courts’ supervisory jurisdiction — The interpenetration of the public and the private — The courts’ approach to the public–private distinction — The substantive law of judicial review — Conclusion

8 Surveying the Grounds: Key Themes in Judicial Intervention — Michael Fordham

Summary — Introduction — Vigilance and restraint — Substance and procedure — Soft and hard-edged questions — Functional insight — Beyond vires — Fundamental rights — Conclusion

9 No Standing Still on Standing — Chris Himsworth

Summary — Introduction — Standing now — Standing ahead — Conclusion: no standing still 10 Withdrawing: A Problem in Judicial Review? — Maurice Sunkin

Summary — Introduction — The background: the growth in legal challenge — Withdrawals, dispute resolution and accountability — Conclusion: a new approach to withdrawal

11 The Constitutional Basis of Judicial Remedies in Public Law — Peter Cane

Summary — The public law remedies — The place of remedies in the law — A criterion for assessing the constitutional basis of judicial remedies — Mandatory and prohibitory orders — Quashing orders — Orders for the payment of money — Substitutionary orders — Declarations — Bargaining around judicial remedies — Conclusion

12 The Impact of Community Law on Domestic Public Law — Paul Craig

Summary — EC law: the impact on constitutional doctrine — EC law and judicial review — EC law and remedies — Conclusion

13 Judicial Review of Prerogative Power in the United Kingdom and France — David Pollard

Summary — Introduction — The United Kingdom — France — Conclusion

14 Public Interest Immunity: Freedom of Information and Judicial Discretion — Adam Tomkins

Summary — Public interest immunity and administrative law — Public interest immunity and ministerial discretion — Public interest immunity and judicial discretion — Towards greater openness? — Sounding the retreat — Public interest immunity in context: police cases — Public interest immunity in context: criminal trials — The aftermath of Scott: a new approach — Conclusion: towards greater freedom of information

15 Civil Liberties and Judicial Review: Can the Common Law Really Protect Rights? — Fiona Donson

16 Public Law History and Theory: Some Notes Towards a New Foundationalism: Part 1 — Peter Leyland and Terry Woods

Summary — Introduction — Public law in historical and theoretical perspective — A new way forward: public law and the functionalist critique of the formalist control paradigm — Conclusion

17 Public Law History and Theory: Some Notes Towards a New Foundationalism: Part 2: Some Contemporary Developments and a Sketch for the Future — Peter Leyland and Terry Woods

Index