Establishing the Supremacy of European Law

The Making of an International Rule of Law in Europe

KAREN J. ALTER

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS
CONTENTS

Abbreviations xvii
Tables and Figures xviii
Legal Decisions Cited xix

1. The Making of an International Rule of Law in Europe 1
   I. The establishment of a limited European legal system, 5
      1950–1964
   II. The transformation of the European legal system 16
   III. Explaining the making of an international rule of law in 27
        Europe: the plan of the book

2. National Judicial Interests and the Process of Legal 33
   Integration in Europe
   I. Explaining change in national legal doctrines: the 34
      dependent variable
   II. Legalism, neo-realism and neo-functionalism: where are 39 the politics?
   III. A general theory of judicial interests 45
   IV. Integrating EC law supremacy into national legal systems: 52 an (historical) institutionalist account
   V. National judicial constraints on European legal integration 60

3. German Judicial Acceptance of European Law Supremacy 64
   I. The main judicial actors in the legal debate 66
   II. Negotiating doctrinal change regarding European law 71
       supremacy
   III. Conclusion 118

4. French Judicial Acceptance of European Law Supremacy 124
   I. The main judicial actors in the legal debate 127
   II. The process of doctrinal change regarding European law 135
       supremacy
   III. Conclusion 178
   I. How did the ECJ escape member state control? 183
   II. Why did national governments not reassert control? 192
   III. What powers do national governments have over the process of legal integration? 202
   IV. National governments and the European rule of law 207

6. The Transformation of the European Legal System and the Rule of Law in Europe 209
   I. The vicious circle of international law: weak legal mechanisms combined with poor compliance 211
   II. The virtuous circle: how effective legal systems enhance the rule of law 217
   III. Extending the influence of law and courts into the political process 221
   IV. Conclusion 229

References 233
Index 251