Contents

List of Abbreviations ................................................................. xxvii

Strict Liability: Questionnaire and Cases (Michael R. Will) ................. 3

Part I. General Questions ............................................................. 3
A. Legal Basis. ........................................................................ 3
  1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between?  3
  2. Other means of achieving strict liability. ..................................... 3
  3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? ...................... 3
  4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? ......................................................... 3
  5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? .............. 3
  6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort?  3
B. General characteristics ............................................................... 4
  1. What does strict liability attach to? .......................................... 4
  2. Which factors justify strict liability? .......................................... 4
  3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others ................................................................. 4
  4. Who is liable? ....................................................................... 4
  5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? ................................................................. 4
  6. Which defences? ................................................................... 4
  7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability ............................. 4
C. Rules differing from general tort law ............................................. 4
  1. Causation ........................................................................... 4
  2. Protective purpose of the statute. ............................................. 5
  3. Type of damages .................................................................. 5
  4. Amount of damages ................................................................ 5
  5. Time limits ........................................................................... 5
D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ............................... 5
E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ............................... 5
  1. Insurance (compulsory or not) .................................................. 5
  2. Social security ..................................................................... 5
  3. Workers’ compensation .......................................................... 5
  4. Compensation fund ................................................................ 5
F. Visions. ..................................................................................... 5
  1. Reform in your country ........................................................... 5
  2. Personal visions .................................................................... 5
  3. Vision for a European Civil Code (in particular a general clause) ..................................................................................... 5
G. Possible directions ........................................................................ 5
  1. Swiss Draft art. 50 (1999)? ....................................................... 5
  2. American Restatement on Torts 2d §§ 519, 520 (1976)? .............. 5
Contents

Part II. Cases
A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms. ..................................................... 5
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ .............................................................................................. 6
C. Excuses .................................................................................................................................. 6
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder. ..................................................... 6

Austria (Bernhard A. Koch and Helmut Koziol) ................................................................. 9

Part I. General Questions ..................................................................................................... 9
A. Legal basis .......................................................................................................................... 9
1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? ................. 9
2. Other means of achieving strict liability ............................................................................ 12
3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? ....................................................... 13
4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? ....... 14
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? ................................................................. 15
6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? ....................................................... 15

B. General characteristics ...................................................................................................... 15
1. What does strict liability attach to? .................................................................................... 15
2. Which factors justify strict liability? .................................................................................. 19
3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others .................... 20
4. Who is liable? .................................................................................................................... 22
5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? ................................. 24
6. Which defences? .............................................................................................................. 25
7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability .............................................................. 28

C. Rules differing from general tort law ................................................................................. 28
1. Causation .......................................................................................................................... 28
2. Protective purpose of the statute ..................................................................................... 30
3. Type of damages .............................................................................................................. 30
4. Amount of damages ........................................................................................................ 31
5. Time limits ....................................................................................................................... 33
6. Vicarious liability ............................................................................................................ 33

D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ............................................................... 33

E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ............................................................... 34
1. Insurance (compulsory or not) ......................................................................................... 34
2. Social security .................................................................................................................. 34
3. Workers’ compensation ................................................................................................... 35
4. Compensation fund ........................................................................................................ 35

F. Visions ................................................................................................................................ 35
1. Reform in Austria .............................................................................................................. 35
2. Personal visions ................................................................................................................. 36
3. Vision for a European Civil Code (in particular a general clause) ................................. 37
C. Excuses ................................. 98
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder. ....................... 99

England (W. V. Horton Rogers) ............................................................... 101

Part I. General Questions ................................................................. 101
A. Legal basis .......................................................... 101
   1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? 101
   2. Other means of achieving strict liability. ........................................... 104
   3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? .............................. 106
   4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? .......................................................... 109
   5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? .................... 109
   6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? ..................... 109
B. General characteristics .................................................. 110
   1. What does strict liability attach to? ................................................ 110
   2. Which factors justify strict liability? ................................. 115
   3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others 116
   4. Who is liable? ................................................ 116
   5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? ............. 117
   6. Which defences? ......................................... 117
   7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability ................................ 119
C. Rules differing from general tort law ...................................... 120
   1. Causation ................................................ 120
   2. Protective purpose of the statute ........................................ 120
   3. Type of damages ........................................ 120
   4. Amount of damages ........................................ 121
   5. Time limits ........................................ 121
D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ...................... 122
E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ......................... 122
F. Visions, possible directions ........................................ 122

Part II. Cases ........................................................................ 124
A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms .......................... 124
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ........................................ 125
C. Excuses ........................................................................... 125
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder .................. 126

France (Suzanne Galand-Carval) .............................................. 127

Part I: General Questions .......................................................... 127
A. Legal basis ................................................ 127
   1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? 127
   2. Other means of achieving strict liability. ........................................... 129
3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? .......................... 130
4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? ................................................................. 131
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability (by the legislator or the judge)? ...... 131
6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? .......................... 131

B. General characteristics ............................................................... 132
1. What does strict liability attach to? .............................................. 132
2. Which factors justify strict liability? ............................................. 135
3. Who is liable? .............................................................................. 135
4. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? .... 137
5. Which defences? ......................................................................... 137

C. Rules differing from general tort law ........................................... 138
1. Causation .................................................................................... 138
2. Protective purpose rule ............................................................... 139
3. Type of damages ........................................................................ 139
4. Amount of damages .................................................................... 140
5. Time limits .................................................................................. 140

D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability .............................. 140

E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ............................ 141
1. Insurance .................................................................................. 141
2. Social security ........................................................................... 141
3. Workers’ compensation ............................................................... 141
4. Compensation funds ................................................................... 142

F. Visions/G. Possible directions ....................................................... 142

Part II. Cases .................................................................................... 142
A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms. ...................... 142
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ....................................................... 143
C. Excuses ...................................................................................... 144
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder. .......... 145

Germany (Jörg Fedtke and Ulrich Magnus) ...................................... 147

Part I. General Questions ................................................................. 147
A. Legal basis .................................................................................. 147
1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? 147
2. Other means of achieving strict liability ...................................... 151
3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? 4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? 152
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? 154
6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? 154
Contents

Israel (Israel Gilead) ................................................. 183

Part I. General Questions ........................................... 183

A. Legal basis ...................................................... 183

1. Strict liability versus fault – alternatives or grey areas in between? 183
2. Other means of achieving strict liability. ................................ 186
3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? ................. 187
4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? ...................................................... 192
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law) later been reassigned to fault liability? 193
6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? 194

B. General Characteristics ............................................ 194

1. What does strict liability attach to? ................................ 194
2. Which factors justify strict liability? ................................ 195
3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others ................................................................. 197
4. Who is liable? .................................................................. 197
5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? 198
6. Which defences? ............................................................ 198
7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability ...................... 200

C. Rules differing from general tort law .......................... 201

1. Causation ...................................................................... 201
2. Protective purpose of the statute ........................................ 202
3. Type of damages ............................................................ 202
4. Amount of damages ....................................................... 202
5. Time limits .................................................................... 202

D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ............. 203

E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ................ 203

F-G. Visions and directions ............................................. 203

1. Reform ......................................................................... 203
2. Personal vision – possible directions .................................... 204

Part II. Cases ............................................................... 204

A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms. ........ 204

B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ....................................... 204

C. Excuses .................................................................. 204

D. Channelling strict liability to operator/license holder ........ 205

Italy (F.D. Busnelli and Giovanni Comandé) ....................... 207

Introduction to ‘stricter’ liability under Italian law .................. 207

Summary of legal rules ....................................................... 209

1. Liability for acts committed by others ................................. 209
2. Liability for rights over goods or animals ............................ 211
Contents

2. Other means of achieving strict liability .............................................. 230
3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? ................................. 232
4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? ................................................................. 244
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? ........................................ 244
6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? .............................. 244

B. General characteristics ................................................................. 244
1. What does strict liability attach to? ....................................................... 244
2. Which factors justify strict liability? ...................................................... 245
3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others .... 245
4. Who is liable? ..................................................................................... 245
5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? ............ 246
6. Which defences? .................................................................................. 246
7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability ..................................... 247

C. Rules differing from general tort law ............................................. 248
1. Causation ......................................................................................... 248
2. Protective purpose of the statute ......................................................... 248
3. Type of damages ................................................................................ 248
4. Amount of damages .......................................................................... 248
5. Time limits ...................................................................................... 249

D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ............................... 249

E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ............................... 250
1. Insurance (compulsory or not) .......................................................... 250
2. Social security .................................................................................. 251
3. Workers’ compensation .................................................................... 251
4. Compensation fund ......................................................................... 251

F. Visions ......................................................................................... 251
1. Reform in the Netherlands ................................................................. 251
2. Visions for a European Civil Code ..................................................... 251

G. Possible directions ........................................................................ 252

Part II. Cases

A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms. .......................... 252
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ............................................................... 253
C. Excuses .......................................................................................... 254
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder ................... 255

Poland (Mirosław Nesterowicz and Ewa Baginska) .............................. 257

Part I. General Questions

A. Legal basis ..................................................................................... 257
1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? 257
2. Other means of achieving strict liability.............................................. 257
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? 272

6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? 273

B. General characteristics 273
1. What does strict liability attach to? 273
2. Which factors justify strict liability? 273
3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others 274
4. Who is liable? 274
5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? 275
6. Which defences? 275
7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability 276

C. Rules differing from general tort law 276
1. Causation 276
2. Protective purpose of the statute 277
3. Type of damages 277
4. Amount of damages 277
5. Time limits 277

D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? 277

E. Interrelation with other compensation systems 278

F. Visions 278
1. Reform in South Africa 278
2. Personal visions 278
3. Vision for a European Civil Code (in particular a general clause) 278

G. Possible directions 278

Part II. Cases 279

A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms 279
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ 279
C. Excuses 279
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder 279

Spain (Miquel Martín-Casals, Jordi Ribot and Josep Solé) 281

Part I. General Questions 281

A. Legal basis 281
1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between 281
2. Other means of achieving strict liability 288
3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? 290
4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? 293
5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? 294
6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? 294
Contents

B. General characteristics ................................................................. 295
   1. What does strict liability attach to? ........................................ 295
   2. Which factors justify strict liability? ........................................ 301
   3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others ........................................ 302
   4. Who is liable? .................................................................. 302
   5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? ........................................ 306
   6. Which defences? .................................................................. 306
   7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability ...................... 309
C. Rules differing from general tort law .............................................. 309
   1. Causation .................................................................. 309
   2. Protective purpose of the statute .............................................. 310
   3. Type of damages ................................................................ 311
   4. Amount of damages ............................................................ 311
   5. Time limits .................................................................... 312
D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ............................... 313
E. Interrelation with other compensation systems .................................. 314
   1. Insurance (compulsory or not) ................................................ 314
   2. Social security/Workers’ compensation ..................................... 315
   3. Compensation fund ............................................................... 315
F. Visions .................................................................................. 315
   1. Reform in Spain .................................................................. 315
   2. Personal visions ................................................................ 316
   3. Vision for a European Civil Code (in particular a general clause) ........................................ 316

Part II. Cases ............................................................................... 316
A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms .......................... 316
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ........................................................ 318
C. Excuses .................................................................................. 319
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder ................... 321

Switzerland (Pierre Widmer) .......................................................... 323

Part I. General questions ............................................................... 323
A. Legal basis ................................................................................ 323
   1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? ........................ 323
   2. Other means of achieving strict liability ........................................ 326
   3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? .......................... 326
   4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? ............... 329
   5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? ........................................ 329
   6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? .................. 330
B. General characteristics ................................................................ 330
   1. What does strict liability attach to? ............................................ 330
Contents

2. Which factors justify strict liability? ................................................. 332
3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others  334
4. Who is liable? ........................................................................... 336
5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability?  .... 337
6. Which defences? ....................................................................... 338
7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability ............................. 339
C. Rules differing from general tort law ............................................. 340
   1. Causation ............................................................................. 340
   2. Protective purpose of the statute ............................................. 341
   3. Type of damages .................................................................. 342
   4. Amount of damages ............................................................. 343
   5. Time limits .......................................................................... 343
D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ......................... 344
E. Interrelation with other compensation systems ........................... 345
   1. Insurance (compulsory or not) ............................................... 345
   2. Social security ...................................................................... 345
   3. Workers’ compensation ....................................................... 346
   4. Compensation fund ............................................................. 346
F. Visions. ..................................................................................... 346
   1. Reform in Switzerland .......................................................... 346
   2. Personal visions .................................................................... 346
   3. Vision for a European Civil Code (in particular a general clause) 347
G. Possible directions ...................................................................... 347
   1. Swiss Draft art. 50 (1999)? ..................................................... 347
   2. American Restatement on Torts 2d §§ 519, 520 (1976)? ......... 347

Part II. Cases .................................................................................... 348
A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms ....................... 348
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ....................................................... 349
C. Excuses ...................................................................................... 349
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder .............. 349

United States (Gary T. Schwartz) .................................................... 351

Part I. General Questions .................................................................. 351
A. Legal basis .................................................................................. 351
   1. Strict liability versus fault liability – alternatives or grey areas in between? .  351
   2. Other means of achieving strict liability ...................................... 352
   3. In which fields has strict liability been developed? ...................... 353
   4. How do judges, when they interpret statutes or precedents, handle strict liability? .  353
   5. Has a particular risk, once subjected to strict liability (by statute or case law), later been reassigned to fault liability? .............. 354
   6. Does your law of contract offer the possibility of a claim based on strict liability in cases where there is also a strict liability in tort? ..................... 354
B. General characteristics .............................................. 354
  1. What does strict liability attach to? .......................... 354
  2. Which factors justify strict liability? ......................... 355
  3. Strict liability in favour of the environment, telecommunications, others ............. 355
  4. Who is liable? .................................................. 355
  5. Where and to what extent do you have a channelling of liability? ......................... 356
  7. Other factors pointing away from strict liability .......... 357
C. Rules differing from general tort law .......................... 357
  1. Causation ...................................................... 357
  2. Protective purpose of the statute ............................. 358
  3. Type of damages .............................................. 358
  4. Amount of damages ........................................... 358
  5. Time limits ................................................... 358
D. Cumulation of strict liability and fault liability? ............ 358
E. Interrelation with other compensation systems .................. 358
F. Visions .......................................................... 358
G. Possible directions ............................................... 359

Part II. Cases .......................................................... 359
A. Scope (protective purpose) of strict liability norms ............ 359
B. Notion of ‘custodian/keeper’ ..................................... 359
C. Excuses ........................................................... 359
D. Channelling strict liability upon operator/license holder ........ 360

Economic Analysis (Michael Faure) ..................................... 361
I. Introduction ....................................................... 361
II. Various legal forms of strict liability .......................... 361
  A. Injurers with lower qualifications ............................ 362
  B. Breach of a statutory duty ................................... 362
  C. Reversal of the burden of proof ............................. 363
III. Economic criteria for strict liability ......................... 364
  A. The test for strict liability .................................. 364
     1. Optimal prevention: the unilateral setting ............... 364
     2. The bilateral setting ...................................... 364
     3. The activity level ........................................ 366
     4. A test ...................................................... 367
  B. A few refinements .............................................. 367
  C. Legislation or case law? ...................................... 369
IV. Examples of strict liability ...................................... 370
  A. Strict liability in (Belgian) tort Law ....................... 370
  B. Economic analysis ............................................ 371
  C. Environmental damage ....................................... 372
  D. Reassignment of liability rules ............................. 374
V. Strict liability in contract situations .................................................. 376
A. Basic economic analysis of product liability ........................................ 376
  1. Coasean bargaining. ........................................................................... 376
  2. Strict liability for 'full internalisation' .............................................. 377
  3. Victim's care .................................................................................... 378
  4. Market power ................................................................................... 378
  5. Attitudes toward risk and insurance ................................................. 379
C. Recent developments ........................................................................... 383
  1. Including primary agricultural products ........................................... 383
  2. Green Paper on liability for defective products ............................... 384
VI. Issues related to strict liability .............................................................. 386
A. Channelling of liability ........................................................................ 386
B. Financial caps .................................................................................... 387
C. Compulsory insurance? ....................................................................... 389
  1. The duty to insure ........................................................................... 389
  2. Increasing the expected utility ........................................................ 389
  3. Informational asymmetry .................................................................. 389
  4. Insolvency ....................................................................................... 390
5. Two further conditions ...................................................................... 390
D. Statutes of limitations. ......................................................................... 391
E. Retroactive strict liability? ................................................................... 392
F. Development risk ............................................................................... 393
VII. Concluding remarks ........................................................................... 393

Comparative Conclusions (Bernhard A. Koch and Helmut Koziol). ................. 395

Introduction .............................................................................................. 395
  1. Terminology ..................................................................................... 395
  2. Inventory .......................................................................................... 395
     a) General clause(s) or enumeration of singular risks? ....................... 395
     b) Rules focusing on the cause of harm ........................................... 395
     c) Rules focusing on the harm itself ................................................. 404
  3. Conclusion ....................................................................................... 406
II. Justifications ........................................................................................ 407
  1. Arguments focusing on the cause of harm ......................................... 407
     a) Dangerousness in general .......................................................... 407
     b) Singular dangerousness .............................................................. 408
     c) Ability to avoid the actual harm ................................................. 409
     d) Prevention of harm in general .................................................... 410
  2. Arguments focusing on the harm itself .............................................. 410
  3. Arguments focusing on the availability of compensation ................. 411
     a) 'Structural weakness' of the victim .............................................. 411
     b) Vicarious liability concepts ....................................................... 411
     c) Deep pocket arguments ............................................................. 411
4. Arguments focusing on the interests involved ........................................... 412
   a) Benefit/profit ................................................................. 412
   b) Risk/loss sharing ............................................................... 412
   c) Public interest in favour of the source of harm .............................. 412
5. Summary ................................................................. 413

III. Who is liable? ................................................................. 413
1. Keeper, possessor, custodian, person in control .................................. 413
   a) Dangers ...................................................................... 413
   b) Other sources ................................................................. 417
   c) Case 6 ....................................................................... 417
   d) Conclusions ................................................................. 418
2. Incapable persons .................................................................. 419
3. Unauthorized persons .................................................................. 419
4. Channelling ................................................................. 419

IV. Defences ................................................................. 420
1. Inventory ........................................................................ 420
   a) Arguments beyond the sphere of both plaintiff and defendant ........ 420
   b) Arguments concerning the defendant’s sphere .............................. 421
   c) Arguments concerning the plaintiff’s sphere .................................. 422
2. Summary ........................................................................ 424

V. Specific features ................................................................. 425
1. Causation ...................................................................... 425
   a) Presumption of causation ..................................................... 425
   b) Conflicting causes (strict + strict, strict + fault) ......................... 425
2. Protective purpose of the norm ..................................................... 426
3. Type of loss covered ............................................................... 427
4. Amount of damages ................................................................ 428
   a) Caps ....................................................................... 428
   b) Mitigation of damages ......................................................... 429
   c) Thresholds .................................................................. 429
5. Time limits ....................................................................... 429

VI. Interrelation with other compensation systems ............................. 430

VII. Cumulation of strict and fault liability ..................................... 432

VIII. Categories between strict and fault liability (‘grey’ areas) .......... 432

Index ........................................................................ 437