The new regulatory state in Germany

Markus M Müller
Contents

Preface
Abbreviations

PART I: Theoretical foundation and analytical framework

1 Introduction

2 Theory
   a) Regulation
   b) Regulatory regimes and the regulatory state
   c) Explaining regulatory change
   d) Case selection and methodology

3. Reconstructing the market: A historical summary of preregulatory restrictions in Germany

PART II: Regulatory shifts in core sectors

4 Telecommunications
   a) Regulatory environment and sources of telecommunication regulation
   b) Legitimacy: increasing efficiency or abandoning reliable supply?
   c) Agency: from multiple accountability to institutional diversity
   d) Compliance: mandating liberty while respecting property rights
   e) Summary and evaluation

5 Broadcasting
   a) Origins, sources and core questions of broadcasting regulation
   b) Legitimacy: freedom or cultural responsibility?
   c) Agency: the Dual Broadcasting System – a double-standard regime?
   d) Compliance: protecting broadcasting against the enemy within
   e) Summary and evaluation
6 Banking
   a) Regulatory environment and sources of banking regulation
   b) Legitimacy: creditors’ interest, systemic functioning or competitiveness?
   c) Agency: institutional legacy and the European challenge
   d) Compliance: from ‘catch-all’ to ‘level-playing-field’-regulation
   e) Summary and evaluation

PART III: Conclusions

7. The new regulatory state in perspective
   a) Legitimacy – regulatory goals compared
   b) Agency – regulatory institutions compared
   c) Compliance – regulatory instruments and modes compared
   d) A new state?

Bibliography
   Introduction
   Telecommunications
   Broadcasting
   Banking

Index