THE ḤANBALĪ SCHOOL OF LAW AND IBN TAYMIYYAH

Conflict or conciliation

Abdul Hakim I. Al-Matroudi
CONTENTS

List of tables ix
Preface xi
Acknowledgements xiii
Note on transliteration xv

Introduction 1
The purpose of the study 1
The scope and method of the study 2

1 Ibn Ḥanbal and Ibn Taymiyyah 4
Introduction 4
Ahmad's teachers 4
Ibn Ḥanbal's miḥnah (inquisition) 7
Scholars' commendations of Ahmad Ibn Ḥanbal 8
Was Ahmad a traditioist (muḥaddith) or a jurist? 8
Ibn Ḥanbal's treatises 10
The spread of this School 13
Ibn Taymiyyah's era 13
The emergence of Ibn Taymiyyah 16
Ibn Taymiyyah's detention 18
Ibn Taymiyyah's position among his contemporaries 20
Ibn Taymiyyah's scholarly legacy in the sciences of fiqh and usūl 23
Ibn Taymiyyah's death 30
CONTENTS

5 The legacy: the influence of Ibn Taymiyyah on Hanbali jurists
   Introduction 129
   A study of the influence of Ibn Taymiyyah on selected Hanbali jurists 131
   Conclusion 169

6 A case of conflict? The intended triple divorce revisited
   Introduction 171
   Types of divorce in Islamic law 171
   The position of the Hanbali School of law concerning the ‘triple divorce’ 172
   Is Ibn Taymiyyah’s opinion on triple divorce in opposition to an existing consensus amongst the scholars? 181

Conclusions 186

Notes 192
Bibliography 262
Index 275