Contents

Contributors vii

Introduction xi

Part 1 Punitive trends 1

1. The great penal leap backward: incarceration in America from Nixon to Clinton
   Loïc Wacquant
   3

2. Continuity, rupture, or just more of the ‘volatile and contradictory’? Glimpses of New South Wales’ penal practice behind and through the discursive
   David Brown
   27

3. Crime control in Western countries, 1970 to 2000
   Lyn Hinds
   47

4. Supermax meets death row: legal struggles around the new punitiveness in the US
   Mona Lynch
   66

5. The liberal veil: revisiting Canadian penality
   Dawn Moore and Kelly Hannah-Moffat
   85

6. Contemporary statecraft and the ‘punitive obsession’: a critique of the new penology
   Roy Coleman and Joe Sim
   101

Part 2 Globalization, technology, and surveillance

7. Globalization and the new punitiveness
   Estella Baker and Julian V. Roberts
   121
The New Punitiveness

8 Engaging with punitive attitudes towards crime and punishment. Some strategic lessons from England and Wales
   Mick Ryan

9 The ad and the form: punitiveness and technological culture
   Katja Franko Aas

10 Electronic monitoring, satellite tracking, and the new punitiveness in England and Wales
   Mike Nellis

Part 3 Non-punitive societies

11 Levels of punitiveness in Scandinavia: description and explanations
   Ulla Bondeson

12 Missing the punitive turn? Canadian criminal justice, ‘balance’, and penal modernism
   Jeffrey Meyer and Pat O'Malley

13 When is a society non-punitive? The Italian case
   David Nelken

Part 4 Explanations

14 Modernity and the punitive
   Simon Hallsworth

15 Elias, punishment, and decivilization
   John Pratt

16 Liberal exclusions and the new punitiveness
   Mark Brown

17 Rethinking narratives of penal change in global context
   Wayne Morrison

Index