The Economics of the European Patent System
IP Policy for Innovation and Competition

Dominique Guellec
and
Bruno van Pottelsberghe de la Potterie
CONTENTS

LIST OF FIGURES, TABLES, AND BOXES ix
FOREWORD BY ALISON BRIMELOW xi
PREFACE BY ALAIN POMPIDOU xiii
AUTHORS’ PREFACE xv

1 Introduction 1

1.1. Why an Economic Approach to Patents? 1
1.2. A Primer on Patents 4
1.3. Recent Trends: Patents in the Knowledge-Based Economy 8
1.4. Structure of the Book 11

PART 1 THE ECONOMICS OF PATENTS 13

2 Historical Insights 15
 Dominique Guellec

2.1. Genesis of the Patent System: Fifteenth to Eighteenth Century 15
2.2. The Crystallization of Modern Patent Systems: The Nineteenth Century 21
2.3. Patent Systems Since 1900 24
2.4. Archaeology of the Patent System: How its Major Features Emerged 32
2.5. Major Lessons from History 42
2.6. Summary 45

3 Patents as an Incentive to Innovate 46
 Dominique Guellec

3.1. The Rationale for Patents 46
3.2. Patents as Policy Tool 55
3.3. An Economic Incentive 63
3.4. Inventions Disclosure and the Social Cost of Patents 74
3.5. Summary 84

4 Patent as a Market Instrument 85
 Dominique Guellec, Bruno van Pottelsberghe, and Nicolas van Zeebroeck

4.1. The Various Uses of Patents 85
4.2. Licensing and the Market for Technology 88
4.3. Patents and Competition Policy 94
4.4. The Value of Patents
4.5. Summary

5. Patent Design
Dominique Guellec
5.1. What is a ‘Good’ Patent?
5.2. Subject Matter
5.3. Inventive Step
5.4. Scope
5.5. Duration
5.6. Summary

PART 2  THE EUROPEAN PATENT SYSTEM

6. Patenting Procedures and Filing Strategies at the EPO
Niels Stevnsborg and Bruno van Pottelsberghe
6.1. The Routes to the EPO
6.2. The Draft of a Patent Application
6.3. A Step by Step Interaction with the EPO
6.4. Typology of Filing Strategies
6.5. Summary

Bruno van Pottelsberghe
7.1. Academic Patenting
7.2. Comparative Analysis of Costs
7.3. Comparative Analysis of Operations
7.4. Towards a More Integrated Market for Technology?
7.5. The Explosion of the EPO Workload
7.6. Summary

8. The European Patent System at the Crossroad
Dominique Guellec and Bruno van Pottelsberghe
8.1. The Twin Challenges of Quantity and Quality
8.2. The Policy Challenges
8.3. The Challenge of Integrating the European Patent System
8.4. The Challenge of Reinforcing the Economic Dimension

REFERENCES
INDEX